OCTOBER 8 ELECTION CALLED FOR BRITAIN

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Macmillan today fixed Oct. 8 as the date for Britain's national election.

VICTIM OF WIND, WAVE

With hull hopelessly smashed, this small craft is evidence of fury of sudden storm which whipped Juan de Fuca Strait Monday, piling up driftwood and refuse along Dallas Road waterfront. Times photo was taken at 6 p.m., just before storm started to blow itself out.

Sneak Southwester Imperils Fishermen

The unpredictable Juan de Fuca Strait lashed out at close to 200 sports fishing boats between Brothie Ledge and Albert Head Monday in a sudden storm that built up to gale force in less than 10 minutes.

Almost miraculously, there were no lives lost, but small boats clawed desperately toward shore as winds blew at 45 miles an hour, gusting to 61.

Another fleet of about 100 boats, mostly outboards and small inboards, was hit by the southwester in the Sooke area.

At one time it was feared at least three fishermen had drowned, as their cars were parked at Sooke fisherman's wharf after all boats had disappeared.

Family Saved at Breakwater

An unidentified man, his wife, and two children were saved when their small boat smashed against the seaward side of the breakwater. Three young men raced out on the breakwater and down to the water's edge to pull the family ashore.

At HMCS Naden, the patrol boat was alerted for sea at a moment's notice. It's services were not called on.

The wind came from the worst possible direction, churning a flood tide into towering white caps. Waves built to 10 and 12-foot crests at the height of the storm, which blew itself out during the night.

RCAF Rescue Co-Ordination centre at Sea Island, Vancouver, handled 14 calls for aid Tuesday evening, about half of them in Island waters.

An unidentified man was swept overboard from the fishboat Seagull near Sooke. He was rescued by an RCMP launch.

Commercial fishermen Ron

Griffin and A. Bastion were rescued by the RCMP from Broken Island, near Nanaimo, after their boat was driven ashore.

Two sailings of the Washington State Ferry Kalakala were cancelled due to high seas.

The storm also caused minor damages ashore in the Victoria area, interrupting some utilities services.

Telephone linemen were out Sunday and Monday, mostly repairing about 50 local interruptions caused by falling branches. Two main downtown cables were out for a short period Sunday. Lines were cut off in the Belmont and Ten Mile Point areas by falling trees.

A large tree was blown down at 378 St. Charles, and fell across the road, blocking it until removed by city workmen.

End of Lumber Strike Seen As IWA Backs Deutsch Plan

Result of Vote Expected Friday

Prospects of an early end, possibly next week, to the economy-crippling B.C. coast loggers' strike was seen today as 26,660 woodsmen began a vote on a 20-cent-an-hour pay increase over two years proposed by government mediator Dr. John Deutsch.

Policy committee of the International Woodworkers of America Sunday recommended to their members that they accept the proposal.

A result of the vote is expected by Friday.

Dr. Deutsch suggested the loggers get a 16-cent hourly pay boost this year reaching to June 15, and another 10-cent boost next year. It also proposed various "fringes."

AN IMPROVEMENT

Union leader Joe Morris told a press conference Sunday that "while the Deutsch report does not entirely satisfy the needs and desires of the members of the union, it represents a considerable improvement over a conciliation board report."

(The board report recommended 12 cents an hour over two years, paralleling the terms offered by the employers.)

Mr. Morris, however, said the policy committee's decision was not unanimous. He said chief opposition came from Vancouver-New Westminster district locals.

And during the weekend, Syd Thompson, president of the 6,000-member Vancouver local, said he would speak against the committee's decision at a special meeting of his local.

Mr. Morris discussed the incident, adding "we will see how much opposition there is when the vote is tabulated."

Mr. Morris said that if the companies did not accept the report the union was not bound by its terms in later demands. He said he had no doubt the workers would accept the recommendation.

Officials of Victoria, Nanaimo and Duncan locals are known to have recommended acceptance of the report, and it is understood a similar line was taken by IWA leaders at Port Alberni.

SOLID FRONT
A Duncan spokesman said today, "As far as I know, there is a solid front up here for acceptance. Everybody seems to want to get back to work."

The Port Alberni local was to vote today at 3 p.m., Duncan and Nanaimo Wednesday or Thursday.

Victoria IWA members will vote on the Deutsch report at a membership meeting called for 2 p.m. Wednesday at the Club Sirocco, 1037 View. Local 1-118 president Jack MacKenzie today urged all union members to attend.

The walkout to date is estimated to have cost the industry $22,640,000 in lost production and the men $20,450,000 in wages since it began July 6.

Meanwhile, Forest Industrial Relations, which represents the 127 companies involved, is not expected to comment on the Deutsch report until after the union vote has been tabulated.

Reliable lumber industry informants say the companies are split 50-50 whether to use Prof. Deutsch's recommendation as a basis of settlement.

They add a solid acceptance vote by the union might swing the tide and end the longest, and probably costliest woodworkers' strike in B.C. history.

B.C. MINER FOUND SLAIN

BRALORNE, B.C. (CP)—The body of Charles Edward Chapman, 46-year-old miner, was found in a cabin here today. Police said he had been shot to death.

A 26-year-old man was being held in connection with Chapman's death.

RCMP said the shooting apparently followed a quarrel. No charges were laid immediately.

A 60-year-old Westholme man was one of 10 B.C. traffic fatalities over the Labor Day holiday weekend.

George Thomas was killed last Monday night when the truck he was driving plunged off the Crofton-Chemalms road into a power pole.

RCMP at Chemalms said cause of the accident is unknown, but an inquest will be held this week.

Dr. Steel Dies After Long Coma

Victoria physician Dr. Anne Steel died Sunday in Royal Jubilee Hospital after 1,209 days in a deep coma.

The three-year struggle by physicians to preserve her life started May 16, 1956, when she fell from a horse near Osoyoos, B.C., while holidaying with her children, Phillips and Tony.

"She was gradually becoming weaker," said Jubilee medical administrator Dr. Murray Anderson, "and just quietly slipped away."

Doctors said that initial brain damage to the 39-year-old woman was severe and further deterioration was produced by gradual debilitation of the remaining areas and general "weakening of the physique."

During her illness she was visited daily by her husband Philip, a school teacher, and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Cooke, 1560 Despard.

Efforts to help her condition during the years included visits by English physician Dr. Christopher Woodard, a practitioner of faith or prayer healing.

PAYS TRIBUTE

Dr. Anderson paid tribute to the care shown her by doctors and nurses of the hospital and said they had "done a tremendous job."

Dr. Steel received her B.C. certification to practice medicine in 1948 and interned at St. Joseph's Hospital here.

She then practiced here for eight years in partnership with Dr. Charlotte Dohan.

Born in Scotland in 1920, she attended Queen Margaret's School, Scarborough, England, and graduated in medicine from the University of Edinburgh in 1944.

After graduation she joined the Red Cross and followed the Allied forces into Malaya where she was placed in charge of a hospital in Johore State.

For work at the hospital she received the official thanks of the Malayan government.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 1:45 p.m. in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church conducted by Very Rev. J. Lewis W. McLean.

Guards of honor will be formed by nurses of the Jubilee and St. Joseph's Hospitals and pallbearers will be members of the Victoria Medical Society.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

Lord, teach us to pray. Grant us the faith that prevails. Enable us to take hold of the promises of God and claim their fulfillment in the cause entrusted to us. Make the believing prayers of Thy people a channel through which streams of grace may flow into the souls of those who are athirst for God. Then, through men and women who are God-possessed, work out Thy wonders for our generation; through Christ. Amen.

3 Bombings Inflame Little Rock

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—Governor Orval E. Faubus today deplored three bombings over school integration as public indignation mounted.

A $100,000 reward fund was proposed for the capture of the persons who tossed the bombs Monday night.

One bomb damaged the school board building. One hit the mayor's business office and the other damaged a station wagon of Fire Chief Gann Nalley.

No one was injured.

BARRICADES UP
Police armed with riot guns patrolled streets and set up barricades around the four public high schools. Two of the schools were integrated Aug. 12.

Two men were reported seen fleeing from the bombed structures after hurling objects at them. No arrests have been made.

Faubus told a press conference he thought the bombings were "sickening and deplorable."

The reward fund was proposed by Ben W. Dees, a consulting engineer. He said he would try to organize a movement to set up the fund.

Holiday Toll: 431 in U.S., 53 Canadians

TORONTO (CP)—Canada's Labor Day weekend, a time of vacation fun for most, became a time of sorrow for some as 53 persons died in accidents, more than half of them on the highways.

Traffic accidents accounted for 32 deaths, 11 fewer than the number killed on the roads during last year's Labor Day weekend.

Thirteen persons were drowned.

CHICAGO (AP)—Traffic accidents during the three-day Labor Day holiday cost the U.S. a near-record toll in human lives.

There were 431 dead counted today.

The all-time record number of traffic deaths for a Labor Day weekend is 461—set in 1951.

Duplessis Funeral Thursday

QUEBEC CITY (UPI)—Quebeckers said goodbye to "Le Chef" today.

The body of the late Premier Maurice Duplessis was carried through hushed crowds from the legislature where he ruled and lay in state to a basilica where he worshipped, en route to Three Rivers, Que., where he will be buried Thursday.

An estimated 1,000 to 2,000 mourners an hour filed singly and later in double lines past the flower-banked bier of the 69-year-old premier and National Union party leader in the legislative chamber Monday afternoon and this morning. Thousands, many of whom knew him as a child, were expected at the Three Rivers courthouse tonight and Wednesday before the premier is buried in his family's plot beside the local Church of the Assumption.

Duplessis died at 12:01 a.m. Monday in the Northeastern Quebec mining community of Schefferville. He succumbed after a series of cerebral hemorrhages that struck him within two days.

Prime Minister John Diefenbaker announced in Ottawa that he would lead a contingent of federal cabinet members at Thursday's funeral rites.

Plans were announced in Quebec, meanwhile, for a Thursday night Union National party caucus to choose a successor to Duplessis.

VATICAN CITY (AP)—L'Osservatore Romano, sharply attacking beauty contests, has described them as "zoological market exhibits."

The Vatican newspaper Monday criticized motion pictures in which nudity rather than artistic ability is a means to success. It added that "the beauty contest is the first step to climb this ladder of success."

ODENSE, Denmark — A Rolls-Royce that did a Rip Van Winkle for 30 years was on the road again Monday.

The 48-year-old car looked none the worse for having been walled up for three decades in fairy-tale castle near here.

Baron Raben-Levetzau bought the car in 1911. The chassis alone cost him $5,000. In 1930 he decided to sell it but found he couldn't get the price he wanted. In a fit of pique, he ordered the car walled up in the castle. Someone recently told the baron's son he had a Rolls-Royce somewhere in his castle, and searchers knocked a hole through a brick wall in one of the castle's outbuildings and there she was — a bit dusty, but intact.

where an all-white school faces court-ordered integration. A Negro effigy was found hanging on the school grounds this morning.

Attached to the feet of the dummy was a sign which read: "Save our schools."

Police checked cars and homes of virtually all public officials and others who have been prominent in the integration squabble. Lights in all school buildings were turned on for the night as a precaution.

Nalley's firemen helped police turn back some 200 segregationists in a march on Central High School on the opening of school last month.

It was at Central High School where mob violence broke out in the fall of 1957 over the integration of nine Negroes. Federal troops were called in to restore order.

Police Chief Gene Smith took personal charge overnight of his 160 men, who stopped motorists and pedestrians alike for checking hours after the bombings.

Smith, who also was in personal charge when his police stopped the mob demonstration at Central, was visibly angry. He checked the wrecked buildings and then returned to police headquarters where he paced the floor and waited for reports of leads.

The FBI was called in. So were police from North Little Rock, just across the Arkansas River.

The most damage was at the office of Mayor Werner Knoop in a construction company which he heads. There a steel panel in the building was knocked into the street.

One room of the school board building was wrecked and windows were shattered. The concussion from the bombing there blew out windows of the Carmelite monastery next door where Roman Catholic nuns were asleep. None was hurt.

Windows in the First Presbyterian Church, across the street from Knoop's office, also were blown out.

The blasts all came within 35 minutes.

Police were not sure whether the bombings were triggered by one or several persons. Nor were they sure whether the bombs were dynamite, but assistant police chief R. E. Glasscock said he thought they were. There were no fires.

Many Missed Royal Bonus Says Strachan

Disbursement of the provincial government royal visit bonus of $25 to B.C. welfare cases missed a large number of the elderly ill, it was alleged today.

Opposition leader Robert Strachan said chronically ill elderly patients in beds leased as a provincial infirmary, whose expenses are paid by B.C. Hospital Insurance Service, did not receive the grant. A welfare official said this was the case at the 150-bed Mount St. Mary Hospital, 999 Burdett, in Victoria.

Patients placed there by the city welfare department received the bonus while those in neighboring beds, under BCHIS care, did not.

There are 95 beds in the hospital leased to the province for BCHIS-sponsored aged and infirm.

The same situation holds true at Vancouver's Marpole institution, Alco at Haney and at B.C. mental hospitals.

8 Die in Traffic Over Long Weekend

(From CP Dispatches)

Nine persons died in mainland B.C. holiday weekend accidents—eight of them in traffic, one by drowning.

Worst smash was at Clinton where three persons were killed and three suffered severe injuries Monday when the car in which they were travelling left the road and rolled into a ditch.

The dead were identified as Irene Joan Fletcher, 19; Michael Harry Dunn, 20, and Isabelle Dumas, 25; all residents of this Cariboo town.

At Penticton—Flossie Ambrosi, 28, of Vancouver, was killed Saturday and two men injured in a two-car highway collision.

Walter Junker and Ken Sutherland, both of Vancouver, drivers of the cars, were slightly injured. Police said the two cars sideswiped while travelling in opposite directions in a 60-mile-an-hour zone.

Two Alberta vacationers died Monday when their car smashed through a bridge railing and bounced down a 150-foot embankment on the Big Bend Highway between Revelstoke and Golden in eastern B.C.

Mrs. Albert Peterson, 45, of Midnapore, Alta., was killed in the accident, 75 miles north of Revelstoke. Mr. Peterson died an hour later in hospital.

At Princeton, Antonia Sartore, 76, died in hospital Monday 90 minutes after being struck by a bus in the centre of the community.

One identified man was killed and another injured Saturday when a half-ton truck plunged 250 feet down an embankment onto the CPR tracks after going onto a soft shoulder on the southern trans-provincial highway near Grand Forks.

At Pitt Meadows, David Bruce Schleicher, 19 months old, was drowned in a ditch near his home Saturday after wandering away from his yard.

HOW YOUR LIVER BILE BREAKS DOWN FAT

Laboratory tests have now proved that liver bile emulsifies fat... actually breaks it down. It is an established medical fact that when liver bile is added to fatty solids, the fat is broken down and forms a smooth, easy-flowing mix.

In your body, precious liver bile helps break down fat the same way. Many foods reach the digestive tract as undigested fatty solids. Your golden liver bile helps break down this fat... unlocks it... for easier and more complete digestion.

Carter's Little Liver Pills exclusive formula of natural, vegetable ingredients relieves irregularity gently and effectively. At the same time, it actually improves the flow of liver bile needed to break down fat in your body.

So when you feel sluggish, headachy, nervous and need a laxative, get Carter's Little Liver Pills. Remember, Carter's not only relieves irregularity, but actually improves the flow of liver bile needed to break down fat.

New Arms Conference Set; Reds Given Parity

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new round of East-West disarmament talks, shaped up Monday with announcement that a 10-nation committee will start work in Geneva early in 1960.

A joint statement by the United States, Britain, France and Russia signalled rebirth of talks which broke down two years ago.

The composition of the new committee follows Moscow's demands for parity in disarmament talks by including an equal number of members from both East and West.

The five Western nations on the committee will be the United States, Britain, France, Canada and Italy. The five Communist nations will be the Soviet Union, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Romania and Bulgaria.

Russia pulled out of a five-nation United Nations disarmament subcommittee in 1957 after lengthy talks in London. That group included the United States, Britain, France and Canada and the Soviet Union.

BUT MOSCOW OBJECTED

Later a 25-nation commission was created. But Moscow boycotted that one on grounds that 16 of the 25 members "belonged to military blocs directed by Western powers."

U.S. officials, who previously had objected to parity on grounds that it would set a damaging precedent for future international gatherings, said Monday the five-five split on the new committee was agreed to because of special circumstances and in view of the great importance attached to the need for disarmament.

The four-power announcement proclaimed recognition of the United Nations' disarmament responsibility.

"Ultimate responsibility for general disarmament measures rests with the United Nations," it said.

"The setting up of the disarmament committee in no way diminishes or encroaches upon the United Nations' responsibilities in this field."

GENEVA TALKS START

The momentum for reviving the disarmament talks got under way during the East-West Geneva foreign ministers conference on Germany which ended last month.

The East-West talks on a proposed agreement to suspend atomic tests will have an important bearing on the disarmament discussions. The atomic tests ban talks, now in recess but scheduled to resume Oct. 12, have made considerable progress during the last year but still face difficult obstacles.

The atomic powers have all agreed to continue to suspend atomic testings voluntarily at least until Jan. 1.

Freedomites Start School As Promised

CRESCENT VALLEY (CP) — Sons of Freedom Doukhobor children began attending public schools in this Kootenay Valley area of southern British Columbia today as their parents kept their word.

Total enrolment was not available early, but principals of both Crescent Valley elementary schools and the Sentinel High School, reported "many youngsters from the Krestova area have come in to enrol."

Seventy-four of the Sons of Freedom children were to register at about a dozen schools in the Kootenays today, the opening of the new term.

STAY UNTIL 15

They were released from New Denver dormitory Aug. 2 on the solemn promise of the parents that they would start school today and stay in school until they are 15 years old.

Principal Robert Ring of the Sentinel High School said Freedomite parents had made several requests as they registered their children. He said their wishes would be respected.

They had asked that the girls not be required to wear gymnasium shorts during physical education courses, that the children not be required to participate in the daily Canadian flag-raising procedure, and that the Russian language be taught in classrooms.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — J. W. Pickersgill, member of the Commons for Bonaville-Twillingate, Saturday scoffed at suggestions that Premier Joseph Smallwood is campaigning for the leadership of the national Liberal Party.

Mr. Pickersgill said in an interview that "the leadership of the national Liberal Party was filled last year by Mr. Pearson. I am looking forward to seeing Mr. Pearson become prime minister of Canada after the next election."

Nehru Refuses Debate on Feud

NEW DELHI (Reuters) — Prime Minister Nehru today refused to hold a parliamentary debate on the resignation — later withdrawn — of the Indian army chief of staff, Gen. K. S. Thimayya.

But he told the Council of States (upper house) that he was prepared to have a discussion of the government paper, introduced in parliament Monday, which showed the progressive deterioration in Indian-Chinese relations since 1954.

This debate, sought by almost all opposition parties including the Communists, will be held on Saturday.

Thimayya submitted his resignation on Aug. 31 after disagreements with Defence Minister V. K. Krishna Menon.

Meanwhile, Indian newspapers today splashed reports of the disclosures in Monday's government report, most of them headlining the Chinese repudiation of the McMahon Line, which forms India's northwest frontier with China.

The Times of India says "a relentless and provocative sequence of border claims and armed intrusions into Indian territory by the Chinese is unfolded in the white paper."

PM RENOUNCES HIS CAREER AS A LAWYER

VANCOUVER (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker's career as a lawyer is ended.

The prime minister made this clear Saturday before the Canadian Bar Association when he said that after 31 years in the legal profession he has decided that if and when he is defeated in politics he will not return to practice.

Presumably, he will retire if and when his political career is ended, but the prime minister did not say so directly.

"I will not return to practice in any case," he said, without expanding, as he bade the CBA convention delegates goodbye, then returned to Ottawa after a 24-hour visit here.

Youth Kills Stumbling Man

NEW YORK (AP) — A knife-wielding teen-ager chased a 28-year-old man until he stumbled at a Manhattan street corner Monday night and then fatally stabbed him.

Police said the victim, Tom Jordan, fled through a street while his young assailant hurled bits of broken pavement at him. After the stabbing, the youth ran away.

Jordan hailed a passing taxi and asked to be taken to the nearest hospital, where he died.

The killing was the latest in a series of violent crimes that has aroused New York City to move against its juvenile delinquency problem.

The Hosts and the Guests

LITTLE OF WHAT REPORTERS call "hard news" has come out of President Eisenhower's recent talks with Dr. Adenauer, General de Gaulle and Prime Minister Macmillan. The various conferences have been followed by publicized assurances that there was complete understanding, that all is well and that the cause of peace has been advanced.

But it may well be imagined that, particularly in France, there were some anxious questions as to what the American president intends to do when he is privately closeted with Mr. Khrushchev later this month, and a real concern by the U.S. visitor to assure his listeners that no "deal" would be made with Moscow.

One fact emerges from the visits. Mr. Eisenhower appears to be holding the line on his attitude toward a summit meeting of the Big Four. He is quite ready to talk to Mr. Khrushchev personally, and with his allies, but not with all three persons at once.

Earlier, Mr. Eisenhower said that the Geneva conference of foreign ministers had to indicate that a summit meeting would prove fruitful before he would attend one. Geneva fell through; the weeks of talks did nothing to set up a successful conference of state heads.

Now the private talks between Mr. Khrushchev and the President are to provide the criterion. The Soviet leader must give some indication of willingness to agree on basic problems if the President is to be coaxed to a round table.

Mr. Eisenhower's reasons for reluctance are simple. He says he does not want a highly publicized meeting to end in failure and fill people with dismay.

He maintains this reluctance in the face of Mr. Macmillan's repeated urgings that a summit meeting is essential and should be held as soon as possible. Both sides have logical support. The answer lies in what Mr. Khrushchev brings to such a conference and how much he is prepared to concede in return for Western concessions. The President wants no part of the propaganda bargains which have featured previous conferences.

Mr. Eisenhower has little more than a year of effective office left, and most of the final months will be overlaid by the turmoil of a presidential election campaign which will send him into retirement. The time in which he can make a lasting mark in history as a moulder of peace is rapidly diminishing and no doubt this thought weighs heavily on the President's mind.

His place in history as a leader of armies is secure. He might still make an even more revered name as the man who engineered some more or less lasting form of co-operation between East and West. That may be the incentive — and in no vain-glorious or egotistical way — which has carried Mr. Eisenhower through his serious illnesses and his domestic political troubles, and sent him on an unprecedented flight to Europe to confer with his colleagues. Equally unprecedented was the Washington visit of Mr. Khrushchev.

The President will greet his guest knowing that he has the full backing of his country in an effort to gain "peace with honor". He will hear in retrospect the cheers and applause of the tens of thousands of British, French and West German people who so recently gave him an ovation almost startling in its enthusiasm and sincerity. But, as is so often the case, Mr. Khrushchev holds the key to the next step. With it, on his Washington visit, he can open the door to a summit meeting — or lock himself out.

The Chief's Son

IN THE DEATH OF DAVID Martin a wife and five children have lost the head of their family, an aged Indian chief has lost his only son, and British Columbia has lost a man who had been expected to continue the ancient Kwakiutl traditions and crafts so long preserved by his father, Chief Mungo Martin.

This was a tragic death in the rough seas of Georgia Strait, and the sympathies of all will be extended to the bereaved relatives.

Under the careful teaching of Chief Martin, David had learned the ancient culture of his tribe and had become an able carver of totem poles. His work will live after him, in carved monuments here, including the world's tallest totem, and as far afield as London where the Queen's Totem stands. But the promise of the future is gone and a link between the old civilization and the new has been lost.

Poison in the System

THE CONTINENT HAS BEEN horrified by recent news of killings in teen-age gang wars in New York City. But apparently the out-of-town papers have been giving prominence to only a fraction of the sordid story that is unfolding. Commenting on the widespread publication of the killings of the last few days, the New York Times has dug into the local files and submits some other headlines "telling part of the story of New York in July and August."

This is the sickening list: "Police Slay Youth in Gang War Fight"; "Boy in Gang Fight Dies of Shooting"; "Two Held in Killing in Gang Rumble"; "Two Teen-Agers Get Five to 20 Years for Fatal Beating in Park Here"; "Racial Resentment Is Cited in Shooting"; "Youth Sentenced in Park Slaying"; "Three Indicted in Murder"; "Brooklyn Boy, 15, Seized as Killer"; "Four Held in Beating of Physician Here"; "Boy Held in Homicide — Accused of Strangling Woman in Robbery that Netted $1.10"; "Policeman Slashed at Teen-Age Dance"; "Kings Court Jailed 538 Youths in Year"; "Bronx Boy, 15, Held in Slaying of Girl."

There, in less than 100 words, is a picture of depravity, of jungle ethics in a big city, which cannot fail to shock any reader. And the New York paper adds that this is not a complete list, "just the worst of it."

One of the grimmest facts facing authorities is that they do not yet know for sure what is causing the epidemic of savagery and crime. It is only partly inter-racial, only partly economic, only partly the various explanations that are advanced. But added together they all spell a critical problem. And not only the current problem must be solved, but the basic causes which produced it.

was being jeopardized by the War Measures Act, and suggested that the Quebecois should go their own way.

The great Ernest Lapointe, much revered in his native province, came down from Ottawa to counter with a question. If the premier didn't like those in power federally, whom did he want? Some nice, conscription-loving Tory, for instance, like Lord Bennett?

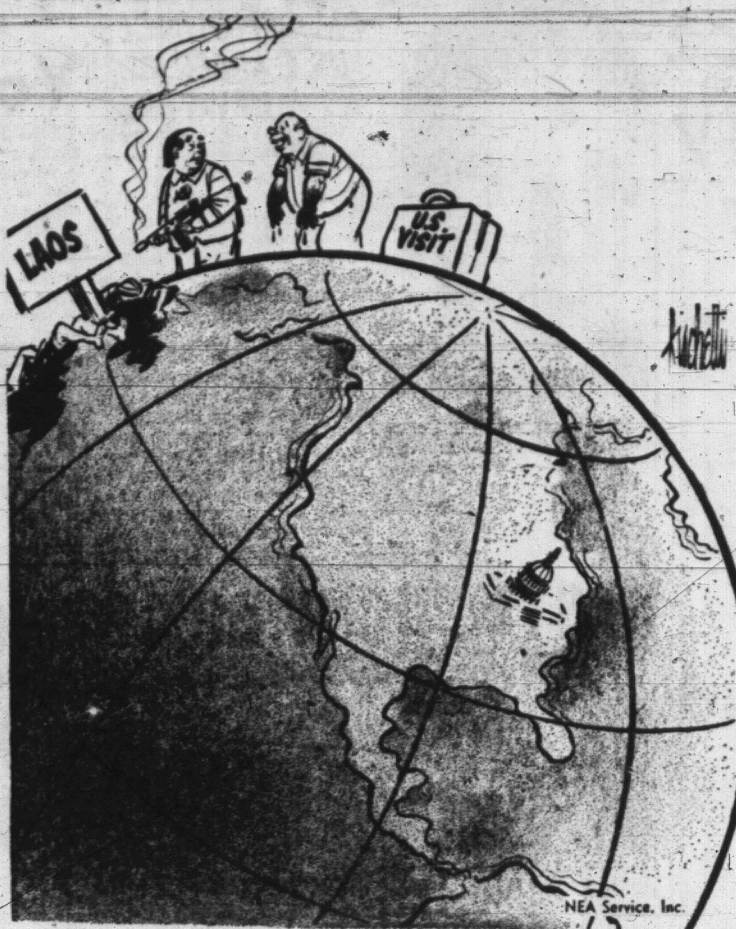

French-Canadians got the point, and turned Duplessis out.

He bounced back with the reinforcement crisis of 1944. By this time the province, sorely in debt at the outset of war, was humming with aircraft plants, shipyards and munitions works.

Duplessis had now qualified his earlier stand and proclaimed his belief in "moderate participation." In the middle of the campaign, a prize piece of political ammunition was dropped in Duplessis' lap when a French-Canadian draft-dodger was shot and killed by the RCMP.

Maurice made the most of it. By capitalizing on the semi-conscription muddle and raising the old "autonomy" cry he won a curious election: 25,000 more persons voted against him than

'I Gotta Go Now and See How the Other Half Lives'

FROM SAMNEUA, LAOS

By JOSEPH ALSOP

A Message to Garcia

ONLY a few hours ago, while he was having a coffee and waiting for his plane at Vientiane, the commander of the Laos Army, Gen. Ouane Rathikoune, got his first hint of the massive new attack on Laos by the North Vietnamese Communists. An ex-Foreign Legion pilot, Capt. Leopold Marold, was telling the crowd at the bar that his plane had been fired on when he tried to land supplies at the Samneua, province border post of Muong Het the day before. Gen. Ouane was asked about trouble at Muong Het. He snapped an aside to his aide-de-camp, who came back a few minutes later with the reassuring word that the message centre General Staff had received nothing of interest.

But this reassuring word was only another proof that Gen. Ouane's communications are rather worse than the communications of Harold of England, who at least heard news of William the Conqueror's landing at Prevensey in less than forty-eight hours. The general's cheerful mood lasted only as long as our flight to Samneua.

Enemy Sweep

There was the hair-raising approach, twisting between mountains, to the little airstrip. There was a jeep ride to the provincial headquarters.

Here, in a big, bare room, the Samneua commander, Gen. Amkha, briefly greeted us and then took Gen. Ouane aside for five minutes of rapid, harsh explanation. With an odd gesture, as though he wished to brush away misfortune, Gen. Ouane then turned to those of us who had come from Vientiane with him and announced briefly:

"The enemy have attacked everywhere. All our posts have fallen."

After this chilling announcement, the generals, their aides, the astonished reporters, and the worried American military attaché, Lt. Col. Joel Hollis, all trooped together into the map room. The maps, with their heavy, newly crayoned scarlet arrows indicating Communist attacks, told the ugly story.

In symbols on those maps, one could read the fall of the four border posts of Samneua province; the intrusion of at least three, and perhaps five new battalions of enemy troops from North Vietnam; and the determined enemy offensive in other areas under Gen. Amkha's command.

Two Days Late

The huddle around the maps continued for perhaps half an hour. The attack had taken place on Aug. 30 at 6 a.m. at all four border posts. Gen. Ouane was now hearing about it at 11 a.m., two days later.

Yet this stocky, tough, hard-seasoned man, veteran of nearly fifteen years of war with and against the French and with and against the Communists, merely asked his questions, made his notes, and from time to time made a suggestion to Gen. Amkha.

Suddenly the aide-de-camp came in, with the news that "the notables" were outside on the porch of the headquarters. The generals led the way.

Four scrawny, wiry little villagers greeted the two generals. One had a severe leg wound. They had walked in from Muong Het and Xiengkho, sixty- and seventy kilometers respectively. The two from Xiengkho had been ambushed by the way; they had been four at the outset, but two were killed in the ambush.

Pattern of Attack

These men, Muong Het's headman, Kham Pheng and his partner, and Xiengkho's headman, Phia Sai and his number two, told their story to the generals in little bursts. The details were all the same and all consistent: the dawn attack, the heavy weapons, the battalion surrounding the village, the people who did their best. At Muong Het, the fifty boys in the village school fought the invaders, and in the headman's little strong point of foxholes he saw three men killed.

All four vehemently agreed that the main attackers were Vietnamese. The Muong Het pair also dated the new border crossing.

After the first invasion a month and a half ago, the government forces evacuated the east bank of the Nam Ha River, as indefensible. This strip right along the border then became an empty no-man's-land. But on August 26, a patrol across the river by the Muong Het militia ran into a sharp fire fight. The border crossings must have begun then, about six days ago.

Calm But Grim

The generals and the head men were calm but grim-together. Detail by detail the story was filled out. Finally, the news was gathered. Gen. Ouane made another curious gesture, as though to say life must go on, and suggested that he had better lunch.

But on the way down the hill to the mess, we ran into a little group of men and boys, carrying burp guns. They had hurried from the village nearest to Xiengkho, carrying back the arms the government had given them, because they knew they were too few. A tiny ten-year-old had his father's gun.

"Go back, tell your father I am grateful," said Gen. Ouane to the solemn child, giving him a coin. And that was the way the Commanding General of the Lao Army got the news of the new attack on his country which may perhaps make history.

Exercise in Frustration

Nowadays one meets many people as exasperated and frustrated as oneself by the inconclusiveness of newspaper and radio reports on government affairs, which are also our affairs. This is not the fault either of newspapers or radio stations but of the premier and his spokesmen who appear incapable of giving anything but evasive replies when questioned on matters important to us all. There is in fact a certain arrogance among some of these highly paid public servants which is becoming so marked as to be offensive.

Ever since the completed report of the Shrum Royal Commission was filed with the premier there has been conflicting information about what it is intended to convey. In the version first revealed by Mr. Bennett it appeared that he and his government were deserving only of the mildest censure and that the B.C. Power Commission had no alternative but to dismiss Mr. H. Lee Briggs because of costly errors made by him.

The Vancouver Sun, however, acknowledged that its own first report, based on the Bennett version, was incorrect, and that study of the full report had revealed a different aspect. This led to a demand by the premier that the metropolitan press publish the full report within 10 days or, he is reported to have said, he will have it published in the government magazine.

The press presumably is not obliged to accede to any demand by, or to obey any command of, the premier and could therefore decide not to publish the full report; if it does not do so and the report is published in the government magazine, how many ordinary members of the public will have access to it?

The only other alternative, the premier is reported to have said, is to have a number of copies printed by the Queen's Printer at a cost of two—or is it four?—thousand dollars for four hundred copies, at which rate, even at two thousand dollars for four hundred copies, not many citizens of the province are likely to see one, which no doubt is what the premier has in mind.

The correct procedure of course would be for the premier to present the report to parliament, from whence, in due course its salient features would have been reported to the public; an excuse for waiving that formality could be advanced however because of the fact that the next session of the legislature is still some months away; but the premier could have called a meeting of the cabinet and the leader, and members of the Opposition to inform them of his intention of presenting the report at this time, but that of course would have meant presenting it as he had received it.

This is but another example of the premier's high-handed behavior, typical of his discourtesy to the Opposition and of his disrespect for parliament and for parliamentary procedure, in the light of which, his somewhat self-righteous reply to questions about his reaction to the justifiably angry words of the leader of the Opposition suggested a respect for democracy which, in his political capacity at least, has so far not been very evident.

The question of course is, if there is nothing more derogatory to Mr. Bennett and his government in the full report than in the garbled version he released, why did he not release the full report in the first place?

To those who have closely followed the Lee Briggs-BCPC controversy from its beginning and have remembered the long and embarrassing speech by the premier at Sidney following the Lee Briggs' allegations, a speech in which the premier showed himself plainly to be worried; when because of public reaction to those allegations he realized that the calling of a commission of inquiry could not be avoided, it must seem, while not impugning the integrity of Dr. Shrum, significant that the premier should appoint to head the commission a man who, as a certain daily paper recently commented in an editorial, "is . . . dean of a university whose chancellor is president of the B.C. Power Corporation (BCE) and whose financial health depends on grants from the government in office" and who has a natural sympathy for the B.C. Electric.

In announcing the formation of an energy board Mr. Bennett also announced that Dr. Shrum would be its head. In a long-distance interview from abroad, Dr. Shrum is reported to have said that he knew nothing about such an appointment and was not certain whether he wished to accept it. The premier however insists that Dr. Shrum had been so appointed.

As he was announcing the formation of the energy board and the names of those appointed to it, the premier availed himself of the opportunity to remind the public that unlike past governments in B.C. the Social Credit government could not be accused of patronage. Shortly afterwards it was reported that the leader of the Opposition had made allegations of patronage in the department of highways, which the minister of highways and the attorney-general promptly denied.

But if there is no foundation for such allegations, what actually is the reason behind a report recently in the press that the RCMP had investigated certain highway contracts? It cannot be forgotten that allegations against a former minister of lands and forests were just as promptly and as strenuously denied by those very gentlemen and the public kept for months in doubt as to what the score was.

Regardless of the minister of highways' apparent lack of concern, it seems scarcely likely that the leader of the Opposition, an intelligent man who is widely regarded for his integrity; who, moreover, is of that race in which caution predominates, would risk embarrassment, if nothing worse, to himself and to his party by making allegations which cannot be substantiated.

These and many other matters; these statements and counter-statements; these allegations and refutations, evasive replies, and sometimes flat statements of "no comment" about matters which the public has a right to know are not conducive to much confidence in the government in office. It needs no effort on the part of the Opposition to convince us that there is something very wrong therein.

Premier Maurice Duplessis died as he had lived—tenaciously, defiantly and in splendid isolation, in the remote Quebec mining village of Schefferville.

When, on a visit to the newly-awakened iron ore country, he fell ill, he gave orders that his sickness was not to be reported. Thus, while the rest of the country learned of the succession of massive strokes which brought him down, the good people of Schefferville went uninform.

It is remarkable, in this day and age, that such an order would be issued; but a measure of M. Duplessis' power that it was obeyed.

No man held a tighter grip on his people than le grand chef. Only once since 1936 had he been out of power, and that due to a temporary miscalculation of the temper of his flock.

Fresh from a tour of the British Isles in 1939, he predicted to the press: "This Hitler will beat them all." (By a curious coincidence, which his opponents revived at every election, he was born on the same day as der Fuehrer.)

In a famous 1939 election speech in his home town, Three Rivers, the premier thundered that Quebec's autonomy was being jeopardized by the War Measures Act, and suggested that the Quebecois should go their own way.

The great Ernest Lapointe, much revered in his native province, came down from Ottawa to counter with a question. If the premier didn't like those in power federally, whom did he want? Some nice, conscription-loving Tory, for instance, like Lord Bennett?

French-Canadians got the point, and turned Duplessis out.

He bounced back with the reinforcement crisis of 1944. By this time the province, sorely in debt at the outset of war, was humming with aircraft plants, shipyards and munitions works.

Duplessis had now qualified his earlier stand and proclaimed his belief in "moderate participation." In the middle of the campaign, a prize piece of political ammunition was dropped in Duplessis' lap when a French-Canadian draft-dodger was shot and killed by the RCMP.

Maurice made the most of it. By capitalizing on the semi-conscription muddle and raising the old "autonomy" cry he won a curious election: 25,000 more persons voted against him than for him, but he squeaked in, thanks to the electoral divisions which put the weight of seats in the hinterland.

Duplessis went back in, and was never again defeated.

His means of staying in power were brutally simple. From the election platform he would cry: "Do you want a new school? A new bridge? A new hospital? Then do not waste your vote on the opposition."

The villainous forces in control at Ottawa were "centralizers" and "federalists"—even when they happened to be such distinguished sons of Quebec as Louis Stephen St. Laurent. Thus the premier was able to spurn Ottawa's aid to universities, on the grounds that it invaded the provincial field of education, for a total of more than $30 millions.

Gregarious, outgoing and witty in his personal relationships, Duplessis nonetheless ruled his party and his people with a will of iron. To a Union Nationale member who tried to express an independent view in Quebec's legislature, he barked in tones clearly audible in the press gallery, "Assis-toi!" (Sit down!)

To a visiting correspondent, whom he was meeting for the first time, the premier proffered a wide grin and the greeting: "You're a big b . . . aren't you?"

To those who believed in civil liberties, he was a plain outrage. While paying lip-service to freedom of worship, he jailed hundreds of Jehovah's Witnesses—and, as these were promptly bailed out by restaurateur Frank Roncarelli, deprived Mr. Roncarelli of his liquor licence and hence his business.

His rag-tag "provincial police" (many of them political heelers) belabored pickets at Sorel, Valleyfield and Asbestos with clubs and tear-gas. His 1937 Padlock Law, (subsequently declared ultra vires by the Supreme Court of Canada) gave him the right to close down any premises "suspected" of fomenting subversive ideas or propaganda. He sought to coerce the press by threatening newspaper control and banning critical reporters.

He revived old feuds by wrapping himself in a newly-created flag—le drapeau fleurdelisé—and chastising the "trusts" (English-speaking) of Montreal. When McGill University, cut short on provincial grants, decided to award Duplessis an honorary degree, and he showed up wearing the traditional red robes, a reporter whispered to him:

"Mr. Premier, I never thought I'd see you wearing red!"

At which the premier grinned and whispered: "You'll notice I'm sitting on it."

The province Maurice Duplessis left behind him is a vastly different one than he knew on his accession to power. A peaceful revolution, stimulated by the war, had changed it almost overnight from an agrarian to an industrial economy.

Great riches had been discovered, and exploited, in iron ore, titanium, and hydro-electric power. And this burgeoning industry had awakened the habitant from his peaceful idyll of the centuries. Militant labor groups were springing up all over the province; the Church was beginning to talk about "recovering the common man"; vast and elemental forces were swirling in the ancient province.

Perhaps Maurice LeNoblet Duplessis, 63, died at precisely the right moment in Quebec's history.

Babes in the Woods

UNTIL recent years it was part of our summer routine at Shawnigan to take the kids on a trek into the potholes over the hills from Chris Behnson's place.

A few of us adults would lead the party, looking after the very small youngsters and seeing that the bigger ones, with a flair for adventure and independence, didn't stray too far afield.

We'd start up an old logging road that went almost to the crest of the hill at a 30-degree grade. Then we'd follow it as it dipped through a gulch winding our way among the scrub alder that had grown up since the road was in use. Finally we'd strike off on a blazed trail. The blazes weren't very good and occasionally we'd stop to build a small pyramid of rocks as a marker before cutting into thick new growth fir.

The kids would struggle along, carrying small sugar sacks holding their lunches and a bottle of lemonade, plus other bits of equipment essential to a youngster's enjoyment of a hike.

Eventually we'd strike a stream at a log jam, follow the creek's course, break through heavy second-growth hemlock and emerge in a swamp meadow that sloped down to the big pothole.

The big pothole was only about 20 feet across and oozed off into swampy ground, but it had a maximum depth of about five or six feet. In the deep pool were so many small brook trout that you could catch all you could handle in half an hour. The fish ran up to eight inches, most of them closer to four. Those we'd throw back.

It was a great occasion for the kids, an early touch of path-finding for them.

Generally it took a couple of hours to reach the pothole. To save time, we invariably took shortcuts on the way out. And just as invariably we got lost. Four hours after we'd started on the return journey we'd stumble out on the CNR tracks behind Behnson's with the kids so tired they couldn't do much more than whimper.

The experience always convinced me that we were something less than expert woodsmen and I used to regard with some satisfaction the activities of the South Vancouver Island Rangers who, in the postwar years, have operated a search organization for lost hunters.

For a while, because of lack of manpower, it looked as if the Rangers would have to abandon their search activity this year. Anyhow they were concentrating on an educational firearms safety film with the department of recreation in an effort to teach people how not to shoot themselves or their fellow hunters.

The prospects of losing their services was a bit discouraging to me and to some who make a point of staying out of the woods when hunters go in. Not that we were directly concerned. But in a general way it was comforting to know that the Rangers' organization was on hand to help those people who picked up guns and went into the bush with even less ability than those of us who knew enough to stay out.

So we who remain at home are interested in a meeting tonight between the executive of the Rangers and the Victoria Fish and Game Association. The two outfits are talking over the possibility of joining forces to preserve the search and rescue service. The fish and game people have lots of active, husky young members. The Rangers have equipment and organization, with technical and practical knowledge to conduct searches.

If the two get together, it should be a lot safer for some who go into the woods greener than the conifers around them.

Particular importance hangs on the discussions tonight. The hunting season starts in earnest on Saturday for both deer and birds. And the deer season carries on into December.

Bad weather, snow, fog, rain and the hazards of hunting to those who don't know enough to appreciate the risks, make it almost essential to have experienced men ready to bring them out of their self-created difficulties. Nobody could do it better than an organization of woodsmen from the two outfits.

EISENHOWER
... smiling return

Western Problems Dispelled

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower returned Monday from his diplomatic mission to Europe and reported that all the little differences among Western leaders have been "talked out."

"I am quite certain that for the moment, at least, everything is going splendidly," Eisenhower told a crowd of well-wishers.

In his informal remarks to the crowd of about 1,000 high officials and citizens at the airport, Eisenhower never mentioned Russia or Khrushchev, due here September 15.

Instead, the President emphasized the unity and strength of the Western alliance.

Eisenhower said that while the West is "united in basic principle and purpose and in our pursuit of peace," geographic distance leads to small differences of procedure, methods and tactics which need ironing out.

Eisenhower said that in his talks with Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, Prime Minister Macmillan and President Charles de Gaulle, he found "governmental unity."

But, he added, "far more heartening than this was the evidence that can be seen in all these countries of the deep friendship of these people for the American people."

"There is no other single factor of the modern world that now is so important, I think, as this: That the peoples of the Western world have for each other a very deep, abiding affection, mutual trust—and in this there was a tremendous personal, moral and indeed a material and economic strength."

Eisenhower had hoped to stop at Iceland on his way home for a lunch with that country's president, Asgeirsson. Bad weather forced a change of plans.

The European trip was one of the most energetic ever undertaken by Eisenhower.

He will have little chance to rest, however, before the talks with Khrushchev begin. He must guide U.S. policy designed to cope with the Communist rebellion in Laos and, with Congress moving toward adjournment, try to win favorable action on legislation urged by his administration.

Ike's Tour Wins Praise From Russia

LONDON (UPI)—The Soviet government newspaper Izvestia today faintly praised President Eisenhower on the conclusion of his European tour but accused U.S. Secretary of Air James Douglas of warmongering.

"World public opinion will assess the results of these (Eisenhower) consultations... by whether or not they would promote a better understanding of the necessity of settling disputes," said Izvestia.

"In any case no one now ventures to declare openly that he (the president) is an opponent of such a settlement."

The newspaper said that on the other hand Douglas and the "bellicose military" are trying to delay the thaw in the cold war.

It said that in his recent speech to the air force association in Miami Beach, Fla., Douglas "as much as urged that the recent diplomatic events be totally ignored."

Tin Miners Don't Get Pimples

Because Cornish tin miners appeared to avoid skin blemishes, British chemists suggested the use of tin in treating boils, acne, pimples.

Now equivalent, tasteless tablets containing 42.5% metallic tin are available under the brand name "Tinoid." Rapid, satisfactory results are claimed for this inexpensive treatment.

Tinoid Tablets are sold without prescription at all drug stores, $1.00.

Macmillan Calls U.K. Election

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Macmillan flew to Balmoral Castle Monday and told the Queen Britain's biggest secret—the date of the next general election.

The first move leading to the fifth post-war vote came amid hardening speculation that the big day would be Thursday, Oct. 8.

Three other Thursdays in October—the 15th, 22nd and 29th—also have been popular guesses.

"All I can say is that I am going to Balmoral to see the Queen," the prime minister said before leaving.

The prime minister returned to London today after dining Monday night with the Queen at Balmoral Castle.

A visit to Balmoral in September is an annual event for British prime ministers, but Macmillan's call had the aura of a special occasion.

GAITSKELL RETURNING

With unusual unanimity—suggesting that "somebody knew something"—political correspondents were agreed that Macmillan went to Balmoral to tell the Queen about the election date.

Amid mounting suspense in political quarters, word went round that Macmillan had sent a coded message to Hugh Gaitskell, leader of the opposition Labor party, indicating that something big was in prospect.

Gaitskell, in Moscow with Aneurin Bevan and scheduled to go on from there to Poland, cut short the visit and planned to hurry home. The election will be the first in which Gaitskell has provided as party leader.

After announcement of the election date, the Queen will issue a royal proclamation dissolving Parliament and paving the way for the first national test of political strength since May 26, 1955, when the Conservatives led by Sir Anthony Eden won a 60-member majority in the 630-seat house.

A minimum of 20 days must elapse between dissolution and election day. One uncertain factor is how much notice of dissolution Macmillan will give publicly.

The election could conceivably take place on any day next month but there has been a growing feeling that the prime minister will cut the campaign time to the three-week minimum, thereby seeking to profit from current auguries of Conservative popularity.

The Conservatives will be favored to defeat the opposition Labor party and record their third straight victory in a national election, a feat unmatched in this century except for the three-time triumph the Liberal party registered in 1906 and at two elections in 1910.

The Liberals, powerful in the early years of the century, showed signs of a revival at by-elections early in 1958 but suffer from the tendency of voters to prefer the two main parties, fearing that a vote for the Liberals will be wasted.

The Conservatives will contest 628 constituencies, giving tacit support to Liberal candidates in Bolton West and Huddersfield West, as they have done on previous occasions. Labor will have a candidate in every riding.

The Liberals expect to have about 230 candidates, mostly in Conservative-held constituencies.

The present standing in the Commons is Conservatives and allies 339; Independent Conservative 1, Labor 278 and Liberals 6. Six seats are vacant.

Common Blindness Cause

Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation.

As I have said in this column, one of the common causes of blindness is glaucoma. It tends to come usually after the age of 40, and it is more likely to come to women, one of whose parents or grandparents had glaucoma. Every person who has any trouble with vision, which is not quickly and satisfactorily controlled with the help of new glasses, should immediately see a good ophthalmologist. People with failing vision, when not helped by glasses, should not keep going from store to store, getting new pairs which also do not help.

Usually, an optometrist will advise such a person to go quickly to an ophthalmologist who will measure the tension of the eyeball with a tonometer. This is the one sure test. Also, an expert often will diagnose glaucoma, or suspect it, the minute he looks into the eye. A few persons who are coming down with glaucoma will feel pain in an eye or they will see halos around lights, but, as Dr. Everett R. Veirs says in his splendid new book, "So You Have Glaucoma" (Grune and Stratton, New York), one must not depend on these symptoms, because many persons rapidly lose their sight without much, if any, warning. By the time they know they are in trouble it may be too late to do much for them. Because of this, and because occasionally my eye feels uncomfortable or my vision gets a bit fuzzy, the other day I went and had my ophthalmologist check the tension in my eyes. Fortunately, it was low. Then he looked into my eyes and cheered me by saying that I have no arteriosclerosis or hardening of the little arteries.

When recognized in time, glaucoma often can be kept under control. If an ophthalmologist tells a man that he must put drops in his eyes every day, the man had better do it! He cannot afford to go, as some people now do, to a quack so that he can be given Bates eyes exercises! If he does that, he had better start saving money for a Seeing Eye dog and a white cane.

Everyone with glaucoma would do well to buy Dr. Veirs' book. He tells people with this disease not to drink a lot of coffee or tea; not to drink large volumes of fluid; not to live constantly with sun-glasses on, as many neurotic people do, not to smoke too much; and not to get into dithers.

A recent study was made of Soviet medicine by five American physicians who traveled 8,500 miles, and visited 61 institutions in nine cities. Their report was published recently by the U.S. Public Health Service. The conclusion was that the Soviet physicians are poorly educated and have a very low social standing. They are "trade school graduates."

They receive six years of medical schooling in over-crowded and usually antiquated and jerry-built facilities. Naturally, part of the course consists of political indoctrination. Three-fourths of the Russian physicians are women. They are handicapped in their work by having to use less plentiful and less active drugs than we have. The level of sanitation in the areas visited appeared to be about 50 years behind that in our country. Much emphasis is placed on physical therapy and rest-treatment.

HOME GARDEN

By JACK BEASTALL

A Golden Cedar 'Uplift'

The golden forms of many of our well-known green plants have particularly endeared themselves to me this year.

Early in the spring I visited a garden-in-the-making where a solitary golden cedar had been planted on the north side of the house.

The clouds were low, a Jack light rain was falling, and the gardens along the street had little in the way of color, but this four-foot cedar was like a shaft of sunshine.

Last week, on the first real wet day of this fall, I stood on high ground in a plant nursery looking down on row after row of the many ornamental conifers we use in our gardens.

Like a patchwork quilt there were blocks of green, grey and blue foliage interspersed with the brilliant sunshine of the golden forms.

For the second time this year it was brought home to me that golden foliage plants can give one an uplift on the most depressing days.

There are very few gardens that would not be enhanced on a winter's day by a golden cedar, and still fewer housewives who would fail to find inspiration as they glanced at the picture through rain-streaked windows.

Many ornamental evergreens have golden forms, including the spreading junipers and the heathers. Their cost is certainly no more than that of their green relatives, but correctly placed, their dividends in mental stimulation can be unlimited.

Smart Budgies

KNOW WHAT THEY WANT

Brock's "Natural Feeding Diet" keeps your pet healthy and happy because it was chosen by Budgies themselves—from seeds selected for their high nutritional values. For over 2 years, scores of Budgies were fed a variety of vitamin-rich, high protein seeds and foods. Only those the Budgies liked best were finally selected for Brock's "Natural Feeding Diet."

There are five basic items in Brock's "Natural Feeding Diet" scientifically prepared to contain all the necessary vitamins... minerals... and proteins your Budgie needs. It's the complete Diet that requires no supplements.

1 BROCK'S BUDGIE TREAT is a balanced mixture of 8 of your Budgie's favourite seeds—a natural treat that's good for him.

2 BROCK'S BUDGIE CONDITIONING FOOD brings your Budgie the benefits of vitamin-rich foods which wild budgies look for every day.

3 BROCK'S BUDGIE CUTLEBONE gives your Budgie the calcium he needs for all-round good health. It's essential, too, to keep his beak in trim.

4 BROCK'S BUDGIE SEED is the base of the Diet. It contains selected seeds, blended for the highest nutritional value, all air-washed and thoroughly clean.

5 BROCK'S BUDGIE GRAVEL helps your Budgie grind and digest his food. Brock's Gravel is carefully screened to proper size.

MAN CLAWED TO DEATH BY BEAR IN ALBERTA

CADOMIN, Alta. (CP)—Lyndom S. Hooper of Edmonton was clawed to death by a bear Sunday, 20 miles from this community, 175 miles west of Edmonton, police reported Monday.

Police said the victim split from his party while fishing.

Hooper was alone at the time and the body was found in the stream later by other members of the party, three men from Edmonton, Gibson C. Scott, William H. Scott and Terence Scott.

WARM, WITTY AND WISE

'I Love Esks' Says New Primate

STE. ANNE DE BELLEVUE, Que. (CP)—If the Edmonton Eskimos get to the Grey Cup this fall they'll have the primate of the Anglican Church of Canada cheering for them.

"Yes, I love those Esks," says Archbishop Howard Hewlett Clark of Edmonton, elected ninth primate of the church by the 20th General Synod here Saturday.

His love of football, and Eskimos in particular, is just one side of the warm and witty 56-year-old archbishop who is one of the youngest primates in church history, but it points up the qualities which may make him one of the most popular and most successful.

Chief among these are a near-genius for human relationships, a graciousness and a self-deprecating sense of humor which runs through all his remarks.

It was his special ability to reconcile opposite points of view and contrasting personalities which led to his appointment as chairman of the committee revising the Anglican Prayer Book.

It was the same quality which won the synod's quick and overwhelming approval of the Prayer Book, and made him, instead of a relative outsider, an overwhelming favorite for election to the primacy.

His humor is frequently turned upon himself and even extends to the arthritic attack he suffered 19 years ago.

For 10 years it kept him in intense pain, before leaving him with a spine so rigid he cannot turn his head without moving the whole of his upper body.

"I have been referred to as 'Old Poker Back,'" he says.

In addition to football, the new primate also confessed he is fascinated by pinball machines — "the non-gambling variety."

"I just love to watch those colored lights," he explains.

A tall, slim, noticeably stooped figure with grey-sparkling hair and brown eyes sparkling behind his glasses, Archbishop Clark was born in the old Northwest Mounted Police barracks at Fort Macleod, Alta., where his father was a constable in the force which later became the RCMP.

He was ordained a deacon at Christ Church Cathedral in Ottawa in 1930 and it was there he spent most of his career until he was consecrated bishop of Edmonton in 1954.

He is married to the former Anna Wilson, of Ottawa, and they have four children—a boy and three girls.

Archbishop Clark describes himself as "a middle-of-the-road churchman with a leaning towards the liturgical."

Year's Polio Up Sevenfold

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada now has more than seven times as many cases of paralytic polio as it had at this time last year, the health department reported Monday.

A total of 110 new cases—76 of them in Quebec—were reported for the week ending Aug. 29, bringing the 1959 toll to 571 cases with 41 deaths. On a comparable 1958 date, the country has 80 cases and nine deaths.

Quebec, hard-hit in the Montreal area, accounts for 406 of the 571 cases but there were indications the Montreal outbreak may have passed its peak. A total of 76 cases were reported during the week under review, a drop of 14 from the total of 90 in the previous week.

FIRST FOR P.E.I.

Of the 34 other cases reported during the week under review, 12 were in Newfoundland. There were eight in New Brunswick, five each in Saskatchewan and British Columbia, two in Alberta and one each in Prince Edward Island and Ontario.

The P.E.I. case was the first reported from the island province and leaves Nova Scotia as the only province without polio so far this year.

All but 14 of the 48 polio deaths up to Aug. 29 occurred in Quebec.

6,688 MILES IN NO TIME

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A Pan American World Airways jetliner that arrived here by the calendar—before it left from Tokyo has set a new commercial record for the 6,688-mile flight.

The big Boeing 707-321, made the trip in 15 hours and seven minutes flying time.

But because of the international dateline, it got here 45 minutes before it took off. It left Tokyo at 10 a.m. Japan time Monday and arrived here at 9.12 a.m. (PDT) the same day.

ONCE-OVER

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—In a scene from the movie "They Came to Cordura," Gary Cooper was supposed to meet Rita Hayworth for the first time and give her a head-to-toe ogling.

"How did I do?" Cooper asked Rita afterward.

"Perfect," she said. "I felt like a smuggler's trunk being examined by a suspicious customs inspector."

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia (Canadian edition) and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to LeRoy Adams, age 9, of Peoria, Ill., for his question:

Do Goats Eat Tin Cans?

Andy knows a goat who is quite sure that people eat forks. He crept up to the kitchen window and saw the farmer eating his dinner. Of course, the farmer was not eating his fork, he was just biting and licking off the food. But it was a natural mistake for the goat to make. We make the same mistake when we see a goat licking and biting at a tin can. Actually, he does not eat metal any more than we eat forks.

He does, however, have a very strange appetite. He is a cloven-hoofed animal and therefore does not eat meat. Like the cow and the sheep, he eats vegetables and chews the cud. Cows and sheep are content with grass, hay and corn. The goat also enjoys these things, but he also likes a lot of other things besides.

The goat who looked in the window had been dining in the garden. He ate a few roses, prickles and all, and then he made a big meal from a bed of blue violets. The next day he roamed beyond the pasture and dined on some dry old brush that no other animal would eat. Then he went back and ate the hedge-around-the-farmer's garden.

That was the day he found the garbage dump. He sniffed around until he found a smell that pleased him. This wonderful scent seemed to be stuck to an empty tin can. He bit and licked until he got some of the delicious flavor in his mouth. He also ate some bits of the label, but this was an accident.

Mr. Goat, it seems, likes glue, just as you like candy. When you see him biting and licking an old tin can, he is really enjoying his kind of popsicle. When he has licked off all the glue, he will leave the can alone.

Ban Goat From Garden

Because of his strange appetites, it is not wise to let a goat run around loose. He can strip the loveliest garden in an afternoon. As a rule, he is kept on a long string.

Goats are very fond of exploring and it is not easy to keep them in a pasture. When they see a fence, they think it was put there just for them to jump over. Once free, off they go to find a garden, a garbage dump or a stretch of dry brush country.

The most handsome goat is curly white angora. When his long silken hair is cleaned and combed, he looks like a pampered poodle. Herds of these animals are kept in Texas. Their hair is used to weave fine mohair cloth. These animals are often let loose in brush country. There they make themselves useful by eating up the dry brush and clearing the land. We could not trust them, however, to clean out a garbage dump. For they would only remove the glue which sticks the labels to the old tin cans.

NEW YORK—Connie Francis, the "ginchiest" gal singer, is talking into my notebook. I think you should listen...

"My daddy was a roofing contractor, but I made him get down off of those roofs and start working for me.

"Daddy helps me pick my songs. I'm buyin' a pink Thunderbird for my 21st birthday, Dec. 12. Everybody buys pink Thunderbirds, that's why I am.

"You see, was ready to quit the business when I was 18. I'd recorded for a year and a half, and sold 1,100 records.

"My father said, 'Ask them to let you do a standard with a beat.' They said, 'Are you crazy?' My father kept pushing me to record 'Who's Sorry Now?' I told them I'm quitting anyhow. I want to do this one for my father. He's very sentimental."

After it sold over a million, and 5-foot-11, bouncy, pretty Connie became top singer, Tin Pan Alley begged papa George Franconera to quit roofing in Newark and become a music genius.

"He'd rather work for me" (It's Connie again). "I'm an easy boss. He comes into town when I come in.

"Daddy and I will listen to demo records by the hundreds. Daddy will say, 'I think this one is gonna happen.'

"Or if we don't find one, Daddy says, 'Let me get my little yellow book. You've got to depend on your father.'

"Like for my next album session, Daddy sits down at the table with his little yellow book and he picks out 'If I Didn't Care' and 'Somebody Else Is Taking My Place'."

Connie herself picked out "Lipstick On My Collar"—and, of course, it is her voice.

"Some singers you can hardly understand, but it's not that they're mumbling," Connie says. "What the people buy now is that youthful Negro, southern sound.

"Take me. I bought all the Fats Domino albums. I listened and I became a southerner. You sing the words real clear and somebody'll say, 'It won't come. It's too good. Do it over, not-so clear this time.'"

Connie who has moved her family over to a split-level ranch house in Bloomfield, N.J., is a very nice young woman, as she clearly brought out.

"There's such a thing as being so hip you're square," she says. "All those words ending in 'ville' I don't use. Squaresville and Endsville, I don't like those. Another thing, I'm very insulted if anybody calls me a chick or a broad. I guess it's all right if you only have a vocabulary of 30 words."

'Benevolent' Movie Star Dies at 84

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actor Edmund Gwenn, a veteran of 60 years on stage and screen, died Sunday at the age of 84. He won the Academy Award for the best actor in a supporting role for his part in the 1947 film "Miracle on 34th Street". He played the elderly counterfeiter in "Mr. 88" and his other films included "Lassie Come Home", "Keys to the Kingdom", "Pride and Prejudice" and "Foreign Correspondent". Death came at the motion picture country home in suburban Woodland Hills, where he had been ill for 18 months. In his recent Hollywood roles the British-born actor was nearly always cast as a benevolent old gentleman—in his academy award-winning role he played a department store Santa Claus.

Leukemia Kills British Star Kay Kendall

LONDON (AP) — Kay Kendall, enchanting and sophisticated beauty of film and stage, died Sunday at the height of her career. The 32-year-old wife of actor Rex Harrison succumbed to leukemia. Harrison was at her side in the London clinic when she died.

Miss Kendall, born in a family of theatrical tradition going back four generations, had entered the hospital eight days ago. She then appeared wan and wasted, having been in poor health for 20 months. The slender beauty had few rivals in gay, high comedy roles. She scored her first major triumph several years ago as the trumpet-playing beauty in the comedy film Genevieve.

ACCLAIM PERFORMANCE
"Sparkling," "subtle," "enchanting," "bewitching," and "delicious," the critics had said of her performance in this and other films. The same adjectives were used by her friends to describe Miss Kendall as a person. One of her biggest hits was in the film Les Girls. This picture was a royal command performance in 1957. She began her career in the chorus at the London Palladium at the age of 12. She had started ballet training at the same time. Then she went into revue and during the war toured the British Isles entertaining troops.

She got her first starring role in a British film, "London Town," opposite the late Sid Field, the British comedian. The film was not a success but Miss Kendall was.

FIRST ILL YEARS AGO
In June, 1957, Miss Kendall married Harrison in New York. It was her first marriage, his third. He had just been divorced from actress Lilli Palmer, the screen star. She first became ill in Switzerland more than a year ago.

FIRST ILL YEAR AGO
Last May she became ill again, this time in Paris, with influenza. She stopped work on the film "Once More With Feeling," and entered the London clinic. She came out soon afterward and went with Harrison to Portofino, in the Italian Riviera, to rest.

"Once More With Feeling" was finished after that first stay in the London clinic. Shortly before her death there was speculation whether her health would permit her to make another film. She told a reporter: "Only death would stop me making another."

Russia Signs Aswan Dam Aid Contract

LONDON (Reuters) — Russia today signed a general contract for technical assistance and equipment for the first stage of Egypt's Aswan Dam, the Soviet news agency Tass reported from Cairo.

It said the contract stipulated that deliveries of equipment would begin in October or November. Moscow Radio, in an Arabic broadcast, said the Soviet Union will send 84 experts to Egypt in the near future. The Soviet Union agreed last year to help finance the first stage of building the dam with a credit of 400,000,000 (about $2,400,000).

Britain and the United States withdrew in 1956 their offers to finance the dam, and President Nasser then nationalized the Suez Canal to try to raise funds for the dam.

Last July Egyptian public works minister Moussa Arafa said the second stage of the massive new dam, expected to start in 1962, was "open for any country who wished to participate."

CRUELTY TO CHILDREN

JAYNE'S BABY 'STUNT VICTIM'

BLACKPOOL, England (AP) — An official complaint was lodged today against Jayne Mansfield here for parading her eight-month-old son before yelling crowds at an after-dark festival. Jayne and her husband, Mickey Hargitay, took baby Mickey along with them when they officiated at Blackpool's annual ceremony of switching on the seafont illuminations. Some 20,000 spectators yelled with delight as Hargitay hoisted the boy shoulder-high amid the bright blaze of lights.

FAMILY TOWN
The complaint was lodged by Inspector Frank Seviere of the National Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children.

"No child of that age should take part in publicity stunts, especially at that time of night," Seviere declared.

The ceremony was held just before 9 p.m. Saturday.

Jayne commented: "Blackpool is a wonderful family town and I thought everyone would love to see my baby." Hargitay said: "The boy had been well rested up for the show. I don't think he was tired."

£500 Legacy For Dr. Adam From Patient

LONDON (Reuters) — Dr. John Bodkin Adams, 59-year-old physician who two years ago was acquitted of charges of murdering a woman patient, has been left £500 by another of his patients, Miss Annie Melhuish, her will showed Saturday.

Miss Melhuish, 90, who died in June, made her £81,000 will in 1956, the year before Dr. Adams faced the charges. Adams told reporters: "It's the first time I've heard of it—a complete surprise."

"Miss Melhuish was a patient of mine many years ago—I forgot how many."

William Melhuish, brother of the dead woman, said: "Dr. Adams saved the life of our sister, Helen, when she had a stroke in 1945" and they became firm friends.

$1 Million Crop Damage Feared

WINNIPEG (CP) — A government agricultural authority said today that unless there is a quick weather change Manitoba crops may be damaged to the extent of $1,000,000.

Since the fourth week of August, much of the province—particularly the southern areas—have been plagued by sporadic but heavy rain.

H. A. Craig, head of the provincial agriculture statistics branch, said damage can "easily amount to $1,000,000."

Meantime, the province was struck Saturday afternoon with what may be the fourth official tornado this year.

The storm, which some witnesses reported as a "twister," hit the province in the Pine Falls and Great Falls areas.

Tribe Fights Back

By Associated Press

Cleveland Indians remembered how to beat Chicago White Sox and Wham! The second-place Indians suddenly have put together four frantic comebacks to stay alive in the American League race.

With 18 games to play, Cleveland is four and one-half games behind the first-place White Sox, who are six ahead in the lost column. This is how the Indians cut into Chicago's lead:

They unloaded three home runs and beat the Sox 6-5 Saturday, then took Sunday's game 2-1 on Vic Powers' two-run double in the ninth.

STILL AT IT

Monday, they were still at it, pulling off two three-run, ninth-inning comebacks for a 15-14 and 6-5 sweep over Detroit Tigers while the White Sox beat Kansas City Athletics 2-1 and 13-7.

The White Sox, getting a lift with the return of southpaw Billy Pierce in the opener against the Athletics, now have 17 games to play and their magic number is 14. Any combination of Chicago victories and Cleveland defeats totalling 14 gives the Sox their first flag in 40 years.

In the National League, Milwaukee Braves have finally blasted off.

THREE IN ROW

With three weeks left and each of the three contenders down to their last 17 games, any kind of a streak could crack the National League race wide open.

The Braves, defending league champions, have won three in a row. They put the string together with complete-game performances from their pitching staff.

The Braves did it with Juan Pizarro beating Cincinnati Reds 6-2 Sunday and Lew Burdette (19-14) and Bob Buhl (12-9) collecting 5-1 and 4-1 victories over Pittsburgh Pirates in the league's only Labor Day double-header.

TIE WITH DODGERS

That moved Milwaukee into a second-place tie with Los Angeles Dodgers but left them both three games behind the first-place San Francisco Giants. The Giants, backing right-hander Sam Jones for his 19th victory, beat St. Louis Cardinals 4-2, while the Dodgers whipped Chicago Cubs 7-1. Philadelphia Phillies defeated Cincinnati 6-4 on Dave Philley's two-run homer in the ninth.

Pittsburgh managed to edge Philadelphia 7-6 Saturday before losing 2-1 to the Phillies Sunday. San Francisco beat the Cardinals 3-2 Saturday, but lost 1-0 to the Cards Sunday. Milwaukee suffered a 5-1 loss to Cincinnati Saturday. Chicago took both games in a double-header Sunday with the Dodgers—a 3-0 win followed by a 5-3 triumph.

Three Killed By Errant Car

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—A racing car roared out of control on a turn and crashed through a guard rail at a stock car track Saturday night, killing three persons. Two were injured.

Driver Charles (Blackie) Lothringer, 33, cracked up seconds after gunning down the track on his first qualifying lap in time trials at Playland Park Speedway.

Track co-owner Sam Slusky, 51; Joe McCray, 54, and Raymond C. Bowers, 14, were killed. All were standing near a concession stand.

Witnesses said the vehicle sailed 40 feet in the air after hitting the guard rail.

Eleanor Again Leads Young Victoria Team

NANAIMO (CP)—More than 100 young athletes from the Vancouver area, Vancouver Island and Golden took part in the British Columbia junior, juvenile and midget championships run off here Monday in steady rain.

Eleanor Whitehead, of Victoria, and Kathy Chubb, of Vancouver, were the stars in girls' events, each picking up two firsts and placing in a total of six events each. Mike Jones, of Vancouver, won the one and two-mile events and was third in the high and broad jumps.

In Junior men's events an

Hammer Record MOSCOW (AP)—Vladimir Rudenkov, Soviet hammer thrower, bettered the European and Russian records Saturday with a heave of 222 feet, 10 inches in the Soviet-British track and field meet.

The new mark is 2½ inches above the old record set by M. Krivososov of the Soviet Union on Oct. 22, 1956.

IT WAS A NICE VISIT!

VISITORS DOMINATE

Mission Rink Tops in 'Spiel

The Victoria Curling Club's 1959 summer bonspiel was judged a fine success by all those who compete, but John Gagnon was happiest of all with its operation.

For Gagnon skipped his Mission rink to the lion's share of the $1,500 worth of prizes up for grabs.

He climaxed a great weekend of curling Monday by winning one primary event and finishing fourth in another to claim the spiel's grand aggregate award in a bonspiel that saw a rink from the host club come into the winner's circle only in the consolation event.

Gagnon's rink, which includes Bill Szabo (third), Fred Johnson (second) and Bill Planidin (lead), went through the spiel with only one loss to show visiting rinks the way.

Glen Harper, Duncan, won the other primary event while Jack Horning, New Westminster, and Cec Harper, Port Alberni, won secondary events.

STILL UNDECIDED The special mixed event was still undecided at the conclusion of play Monday. Horning and Howard Christopherson's Vancouver rink will play off at Vancouver to decide a winner.

Only Victoria rink to win an event was Bob McIntosh's foursome, which claimed the consolation event.

One of the most interesting chapters of the 'spiel was written by a junior from Manitoba—Claude Bergman.

The young curler, visiting Victoria, skipped a pickup city rink of Bill Barr (third), Dorothy Walton (second) and Eve Tang (lead). The aggregation finished second in one of the two secondary events.

RESULTS: FIVE EVENT 1. John Gagnon (Mission); 2. Keith Deacon (Vancouver); 3. Morley MacDonald (Victoria). COHO EVENT 1. Glen Harper (Duncan); 2. G. Wade (Duncan); 3. Harold Keyes (Vancouver). SPRING EVENT 1. Jack Horning (New Westminster); 2. Claude Bergman (Victoria); 3. L. Prokopow (Victoria). BLENDERS EVENT 1. Cec Harper (Port Alberni); 2. Ron Coulter (Victoria); 3. Jack Horning (New Westminster). MCKINNON EVENT 1. (Final to be played later between Howard Christopherson (Vancouver) and Jack Horning (New Westminster)). DOGFISS EVENT 1. Bob McIntosh (Victoria); 2. Gary Leibel (Victoria).

Birdie Streak Stops Wakeham In Nelson Open

NELSON (CP)—His putter working like magic, Arnold Sherwood tied a course record and won the Nelson Labor Day open golf tournament Monday.

Sherwood dropped birdie after birdie to defeat Bill Wakeham of Victoria 4 and 3 in the final on a rain-soaked course. A string of six birdies set, Sherwood up for a 29 which tied a record first set by the late Ken McBride of Nelson. Five other golfers have equalled it.

Women's champion was Mrs. Verner Miller of Nelson who defeated Mrs. S. Lyon of Trail 5 and 4.

BORROWS ANOTHER CAR... SCORES TROPHY WIN

Explosion Didn't Scare Moss

GOODWOOD, England (AP)—Stirling Moss watched his sports car explode in flames Saturday during the British Tourist Trophy race, then seconds later jumped into the cockpit of another Aston Martin and calmly drove to victory.

Moss' triumph in the six-hour race virtually assured Aston Martin of winning the world championship for sports car manufacturers. The British firm has 24 points to 22 for the WHO'S GOING TO OWN B.C. SOFTBALL CROWN?

TRAIL (CP)—Officials were undecided today how to resolve the men's B.C. senior "B" softball title after rain halted the final game in the five-team double-knockout tournament Sunday.

Trail led Clearwater, 4-1, after three innings at which point the game was stopped.

Officials were undecided whether to give Clearwater the championship because of its unbeaten record in preliminary rounds. Trail was defeated once.

Clearwater advanced to the final with a narrow 3-2 victory over Ladysmith. Trail eliminated the Vancouver Island team in an afternoon game, 4-2.

Vicettes Shave Barbers in Final

Victoria Vicettes are back home today with the provincial senior "B" women's softball crown.

Vicettes won the championship in the pouring rain at Kamloops Monday, chalking up their third successive victory of the three-day tourney against Vancouver Barbers, who won the title last year.

BALK DID IT

Vicettes downed Vancouver in a 5-4 thriller Monday scoring their winning run in the last inning when a balk by Vancouver pitcher Judy Emerson brought in a runner from third base.

The Victoria club reached the final round of the double-knockout tourney Sunday by

Pitch Pays Off For Finsterwald

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Dow Finsterwald birdied the first hole of a sudden-death playoff to win the Kansas City Open golf tournament Monday from Don Fairfield.

Finsterwald, who started the final round at 206 and Fairfield, two strokes off the pace at 208, completed their four rounds with 275. Fairfield fired a 67 and Finsterwald a 69 for their fourth rounds.

On the extra hole, a 305-yard par four stretch, Finsterwald hit a wedge shot within a foot of the cup to set up his birdie 3 to Fairfield's par.

Bob Goalby, who shared the three-quarter lead with Finsterwald, shot a 34-36—70 on the par 72 Blue Hills course but his 276 lodged him in a tie with E. J. (Dutch) Harrison, Pete Cooper and Bruce Cramp-ton of Australia.

Sabatine Captures PNE Bowling Event

VANCOUVER (CP)—Fred Sabatine of Port Coquitlam Monday won top prize of $500 in the Pacific National Exhibition's five-pin bowling tournament, defeating Charlie Hoof, Vancouver, 2538-2333 in a 10-game final.

Elsie Jackson of Vancouver, West Canada women's champion, won the women's title, downing Dot Annis of North Vancouver, 2505-2357.

Easy for Lions—Eskis Need Breaks

Hapless Riders Routed 35-17 By B.C. Squad

By The Canadian Press

Coach Eagle Keys probably was wondering when his Edmonton Eskimos were going to get a good break.

Bad breaks had played major roles when Eskimos lost to British Columbia Lions and Winnipeg Blue Bombers in the Western Interprovincial Football Union.

The good breaks came Monday as Edmonton invaded Calgary and upset the second-placeStampeders 16-10. Meanwhile, Lions came from behind at Regina to wallopp the winless Saskatchewan Roughriders 35-17.

Eskimos' win left them in fourth place, ahead of only the Riders, who have lost all six starts.

Winnipeg leads the conference with five wins in seven starts, with Calgary and British Columbia tied at eight points for second spot. Bombers beat the Eskimos 16-8 in Saturday's only game.

LIONS DRIVE BACK

At Regina before a crowd of 12,566 in Taylor Field, Riders ran up a 10-0 lead before Lions exploded for three quick touchdowns in the second quarter. Lions increased the margin to 35-10 in the third quarter before Saskatchewan added a converted touchdown in the final 15 minutes.

Quarterback Randy Duncan, former Iowa University All-American, sparked the Lions' victory by throwing two touchdowns passes in the second quarter. Duncan tossed touchdown passes to Willie Fleming, a team-mate on last year's Iowa Rose Bowl winners, and to veteran import Ed Vereb.

Other B.C. touchdowns were scored by fullback Don Vico on a two-yard line plunge, tackle Urban Henry and halfback Don Vassos. Both Henry's and Vassos' touchdowns resulted from Saskatchewan miscues—Henry running 32 yards on a fumble and Vassos crossing the goal line after intercepting a 'Rider pass.

Vic Kristopaitis, Lions' leading scorer, converted all five touchdowns.

Ends Doug Kiloh and Ron Dundas scored the Roughriders majors. Kiloh ran 22 yards for the first quarter touchdown after scooping up a blocked punt, while Dundas grabbed a 26-yard pass from quarterback Bob Brodhead on the last play of the game.

Reggie Whitehouse converted both Saskatchewan touchdowns and added a 33-yard field goal in the first quarter. Eskimos, scoring a third win in six games, were due for some breaks as their fourth place in the standings was a marked contrast to their scoring average.

Eskimos have scored an average of 2.17 for every point counted against them compared with Winnipeg's scoring average of 1.65. Calgary's 1.47 and British Columbia's 1.16. Eskimos, with ace quarterback Jackie Parker on the sidelines with an injured knee and fullback John Bright hobbling on an injured leg, took advantage of first-half breaks to build up a 16-3 lead and then hung on for the win.

KEY FUMBLES

Eskimos' first break was guard Al Ecuier's recovery of fullback Earl Lunsford's fumble on the Calgary 14-yard line. This led to a touchdown. The next came on guard Mike Kmech's recovery of halfback Don Stone's fumble on Calgary's 11-yard line. That one set up a field goal. Canadian quarterback Don Getty and Ecuier stood out for Eskimos. Fullbacks Bright and Normie Kwong scored touchdowns for Edmonton and end Tommy Joe Coffey kicked a field goal and a convert.

Calgary's touchdown was scored on a five-yard plunge by quarterback Joe Kapp. Tackle Doug Brown booted a field goal and a convert for Stampeders' other four points.

Mary Robinson Leads Snipers

Men took a back seat Saturday in the three-stage Weiler-Renig rifle match at Heaf's Range.

Sgt. Mary Robinson of the 25th Militia Group won overall honors in the event held over three weekends at 200, 300, 500, 600, 900 and 1,000 yards with an aggregate score of 283. Duncan Payne, 275, and Dave Macredy, both of Canadian Scottish, placed second and third.

Tyro winner was Don Grant, another Canadian Scottish shooter.

EDMONTON (CP)—Bud Loftus of the Calgary Country Club won the Alberta open golf championship Monday with a birdie on an extra hole to break a first-place tie.

Playoff Goes Just One Hole

VANCOUVER (CP)—Lyle Crawford of Vancouver captured the $3,000 B.C. Open golf championship Monday by defeating veteran Chuck Congdon of Tacoma in a sudden-death playoff.

Crawford and Congdon finished with a 54-hole total of 215. Crawford took first prize money of $750 with a par five on the extra hole.

Vancouver pro Stan Leonard, who had been favored to win the three-day tournament, was third, one stroke back of Crawford and Congdon. Portland's Tom Marlowe was fourth with 221.

Crawford, pro at Langara public course here, had rounds of 71-73-71. Congdon, who has won the Open six times, picked up $450 with rounds of 69-73-73. Leonard, who missed a seven-foot putt on the 54th hole for a possible three-way tie, had rounds of 71-73-72—214 good for $300.

Top amateur was Joe Jeroski of Vancouver, who had 71-71-72—222, fifth place among the 115 entrants. B.C. and Pacific Northwest amateur champion, Ron Wiley of Vancouver was sixth with 225.

In the playoff, Congdon's second shot landed behind a cluster of evergreens. He was forced to play a low shot to the green but it trickled into a bunker to the right. Crawford was on the green in three and easily won by two-putting from 12 feet.

Tough Defence Proving Best

By UP International

The Hamilton Tigercats and the Montreal Alouettes are proving that a good defence is what's needed to win Big Four football games.

Not that the Ticats and Als aren't scoring points themselves. They are—and in rather copious quantities.

But it's their defence that is quickly separating them from the Toronto Argonauts and Ottawa Rough Riders and turning the Big Four race into a two-team show.

The rock-like Hamilton defence has now yielded a mere 36 points in four games—of just a little more than one converted touchdown per contest.

The Als are almost as stingy, having given up only 43 points in their four starts; 22 of them in their first-game loss to the Ticats.

Petes Collect Eastern Title

BRAMPTON (CP)—Peterborough Mercuries Saturday won the eastern Canadian senior lacrosse championship, whipping Brampton Excelsors, 13-3, here to take the best-of-seven series, 4-0.

The Mercuries leave for British Columbia next Saturday, where they will play the winners of the western championship for the Mann Cup, emblematic of Canadian senior lacrosse supremacy.

Youthful Angler Tops Coho Derby

There's no percentage in cutting a 12-foot clinker-built boat in half, so officials of the Esquimalt and District Anglers Association took a second look at the scales after G. B. Cunningham and 11-year-old Bobby Garbutt had weighed in salmon in the annual EDAE Cerebral Palsy Coho Derby over the weekend.

They just didn't want any ties.

By the slimmest of margins,

The two leaders proved the point over the weekend when the Tigercats walloped the Argos 37-3, for their fourth straight win and the Als made it three out of four with a 22-7 victory over winless Ottawa.

The rock-like Hamilton defence has now yielded a mere 36 points in four games—of just a little more than one converted touchdown per contest.

GAME AHEAD

The action left the defending champion Ticats a game ahead of the Alouettes. Toronto is in third place with one win and three losses, while the Rough Riders trail with four straight defeats.

A record Civic Stadium crowd of 24,245 saw the hometown Tigercats put on their most powerful display of the year Monday, mixing a potent ground and pass attack for four touchdowns with an iron-clad defence that yielded only a field goal to the Argos and added a sixth major of its own.

ROUND TABLE IN FORM

Seattle Feature To Lord Renraw

(From AP Reports)

Sensational Round Table, scooting ahead under jockey Willie Shoemaker at the three-sixteenths pole, Monday scored an easy 6 1/2-length victory in the $122,000 Washington Park Handicap.

The millionaire champion of Travis Kerr, shattered Arlington Park's record for a mile and a furlong on the dirt with a time of 1:47.15.

Claiborne Farm's Dunc, ridden by John Rotz, was second, and Mrs. Lora Birt's Belleau Chief, with John Sellers aboard, was third.

Round Table picked up $72,650 for his seventh victory in 10 starts this season to boost his overall earnings to $1,614,539. It was the 10th record set by the great champion in his 62-career.

The old Arlington Park mark for the distance was 1:48.25 held jointly by Coal-town and Better Bee.

Arlington's six-and-a-half-furlong was broken Saturday when Venetian Way turned it on in the stretch to win, the $184,250 Washington Futurity. Venetian Way sped the 6 1/2 furlongs in 1:15.45 to erase the track record of 1:16 set last year by Tyus.

Ball Ache finished second and Lurullah third.

LORD RENRAW WINS

At Seattle, Lord Renraw ran 1 1/4 miles over a muddy track in 1:51.45 Monday to win the $10,000 added Seattle Handicap during the closing day at Longacres.

The British Columbia horse finished ahead of Cold Steel and Auther B to pay $5, $3.60 and $2.60.

Jet Speed was true to his name as he romped over a muddy Exhibition Park track at Vancouver to win the $6,000 added S. W. Randall Plate.

Jack Heipel of Edmonton pocketed $4,890 at Calgary Saturday as his True Tan, third favorite in the field of 10, captured the 29th running of the Alberta Derby before 5,600 fans.

NORTH SHOWS POWER IN JUVENILE OPENERS

Two juvenile games launched Vancouver Island's Canadian football season on Sunday, but there wasn't much joy for city fans.

Upper Island teams won both encounters: as juvenile circuit began operation with games at Carnarvon Park and Naden's lower playing field.

At Naden, Naval Apprentices absorbed a 47-20 licking at the hands of Nanaimo while Oak Bay was blanked 15-0 by Campbell River in the other game.

Fifth team in the circuit, Mayo Vampires, had a bye.

Juniors Shatter Archery Records

Four Canadian records were broken as the Victoria Bowmen Club staged the combined B.C. regional and Canadian championships at the Bowmen Range and Hampton Park over the Labor Day weekend.

A brother-and-sister junior combination from Ladysmith claimed two of the records while a Haney man and woman got the other two.

Ladysmith's Barry Dashwood bettered the Canadian junior boys' flight record by nearly 100 yards, sending an arrow 416 yards 10 inches. The former record was 316 yards two feet. The new mark compares favorably to the senior standard of 493 feet.

Barry's sister, Susan, also set a junior flight record. She shot an arrow 362 yards 1 1/2 feet compared to the former Canadian junior girls' mark of 327 yards one foot five inches.

Bud Price of Haney claimed the men's instinctive target shooting record of 681 points, compared to the former record of 672.—The possible is 1,080.

Marge Saunders of Haney broke the former Canadian women's big game field shooting mark of 885, bettering the former standard by 50 points. The possible is 1,120.

All scores will now be registered and compared with other provincial winners to determine Canadian champions.

Paul Didn't Find Weather Too Bad

Weather provided the biggest roadblock at Western Speedway during the Labor Day weekend.

The annual 40-lap Labor Day Gold Cup race, scheduled Monday, was washed out entirely and will be run off next Saturday.

They managed to work in the British Columbia sprint car championship after a day's postponement, but miserable weather Sunday held attendance to the smallest turnout of the year at the Speedway.

Seattle's Paul Pold, enjoying his best year ever in Pacific Northwest racing circles, emerged as the big winner in the sprint car championship.

In addition to capturing the 100-lap title grind, Pold also came through with easy victories in the trophy dash and first heat.

Pold, taking over the lead on the 30th lap, beat out Nanaimo's Ray Pottinger and Ron Weiskind for the championship.

Durelle Scheduled To Fight Sept. 15

CHATHAM, N.B. (CP)—Heavyweight Al Anderson of New York will meet Yvon Durelle, Canadian and British Empire light heavyweight boxing champion, here Sept. 15 in a 10-round main event.

The match will be Durelle's second since he was knocked out by world champion Archie Moore, Aug. 12, in Montreal. Earlier Durelle fought a four-round exhibition at Saint John, N.B.

LATE RALLY

KAMLOOPS (CP)—Vancouver Dufferins came from behind with two runs in the eighth inning to edge Kamloops Okonots 3-2 in the final of the annual Kamloops $1,600 Labor Day baseball tournament. The win gave Vancouver top money of $500.

Who Wants the Job?

VANCOUVER (CP)—Four prospective candidates have turned down offers to manage the semi-professional Pacific Coast Soccer League.

Brian Philley, a retired all-star player; Bill Findler, a veteran director of New Westminster Royals; Bert Miller, secretary-treasurer of the main league, and Trevor Harvey, juvenile soccer promoter in North Vancouver, all have refused the job.

Sponsors offered $1,200 a year plus $1,800 for promotional purposes.

Said Findler: "I would want about $5,000 to run the league. This is a full-time job, not something you can do on the side."

NOW

ECONOMY with GAS

You pay only for the gas you use—after you use it. Installation costs are lower, and a gas furnace has a long life. You don't pay for storage bins or tanks, or tie up money in idle fuel.

FASTER heat with GAS

A flick of the finger—and gas responds instantly! Gas is ready to burn the instant it reaches your furnace. You get heat the moment you want it!

AUTOMATIC heat with GAS

With an automatic-controlled thermostat the heat turns itself down at night, at whatever hour you wish. Then, at the time you want in the morning, the furnace starts warming your home before you get up.

DEPENDABILITY with GAS

Regardless of the weather, your gas supply is steady, dependable. There are no bad weather delivery delays. Cold snaps don't catch you unprepared. Gas is right there, every day, every time you need it.

CONVENIENCE with GAS

No furnace to tend morning and night, no ashes to haul, no delivery problem. You never have to think about calling and ordering more fuel—never have to worry that your supply of gas might run out.

QUIET, CLEAN heat with GAS

Automatic gas is exceptionally quiet, important where the heating unit is on the same floor as your living quarters. And your home stays cleaner, has less dust and grime, requires less decorating.

Big Farm Fair Sloshes Through 91st Year

Crowd of 5,000 Amazes Officials

By HUMPHRY DAVY

Despite a drenching rain over the Labor Day weekend, the show went on as usual at the Saanichton Agricultural Fair where more than $250,000 worth of farm exhibits—the largest in years—were on display.

Attendance was down by 50 per cent mainly due to heavy rain most of the day Monday, but it failed to dampen the enthusiasm of 5,000 persons who turned out to see South Vancouver Island's big farm show.

According to old-timers, like George Mitchell, 89, who has attended every exhibition since he was a babe-in-arms, it has rained only four times on the day of the fair. The fair was started 91 years ago.

While the reduced attendance will mean a financial loss for the North and South Saanich Agricultural Society, sponsors of the exhibition, fair officials were heartened by the large turnout of visitors Monday.

"We did not anticipate such a big crowd due to the weather," said V. E. Virgin, a director. "The turnout of some 5,000 people is proof that the people of Victoria and district support this old-fashioned exhibition without the benefit of side shows and attractions."

The fair was opened by Defence Minister Peckers who spent more than three hours viewing the exhibits and watching the livestock contests. Other guests included Saanich Reeve George Chatterton, A. DeB. McPhillips, MP for Victoria, John Tisdalle, MLA for Saanich, and federal and provincial agricultural officials.

Quality of Exhibits Improves

Judges were pleased with the quality of the exhibits, which they said showed a marked improvement over last year. They particularly singled out the garden products and the domestic arts exhibits.

East Saanich Indians won praise for their exhibition of handicrafts which included tribal relics dating back to the days of 18th century English explorers.

The womenfolk competition was keen in the domestic and kitchen craft classes. The honor of being the best maker of jams and jellies fell to Mrs. R. Ratcliffe of Saanichton.

Illuminated Cages Would Help

A big attraction were the poultry and fancy bird exhibits, which included some colorful ornamental pheasants entered by E. D. Wood, old East Saanich Road. Some of the birds, especially E. A. Moodie's Hamburg cock, Silver Sprangle, would have won the praise of a sultan.

Spectators complained, however, that the birds could have been shown to better advantage if properly illuminated.

Mrs. F. Fisher won the B.C. Electric prize for the most points in the household arts class, while Mrs. R. C. Holden took the hand weaving trophy.

Other major awards went to Mrs. Sylvia Hutt, Keating, for the best garden flower; F. Butler, the Vancouver Milling and Grain Co. Challenge Cup for field crops; and J. W. Wright, the Dewdney shield for livestock.

On Saturday, the opening day of the fair, hundreds of young people competed in 4-H club competitions.

Karen Cronk, 4316 Blenkinsop, Victoria, won the Canadian Bank of Commerce trophy for boy or girl 16 or under gaining the most points in 4-H club contests.

Betty Anne Saville, Cobble Hill, won the T. Eaton Co. gold watch for the best dairy calf by boy or girl 16 or under.

Two Youngsters Die In Abandoned Ice Box

FALLON, Nev. (AP)—Two boys playing in a vacant lot on the Fallon naval auxiliary air station during the Labor Day weekend crawled into an abandoned ice box and suffocated. The bodies of Jerry Mylan, nine, and his six-year-old playmate, Dennis Murphy, were found trapped in the wooden ice box Sunday.

"THE GOOD OLD DAYS" shone through the clouds at the Saanichton Fair on Monday when Central Saanich farmer, J. D. Wright, stole the show away from lines of shiny new tractors with his fine four-

Most Likely 'Heir'

QUEBEC (CP) — The man expected to become Quebec's new premier in a few days is a family man, a veteran of the Second World War, an ardent hunter who keeps fine hunting hounds and lives in a white-painted frame house at St. Eustache, near Montreal.

Hon. Paul Sauve, youth and social welfare minister, is a political prodigy and like the late Premier Duplessis was raised in a home where politics was the chief subject of conversation.

He was elected a member of the Quebec legislature at 23—the year he graduated as a lawyer—and at 29 was speaker of the legislative assembly.

By the 1956 provincial election he was already playing a key role in the Union Nationale party's affairs and was emerging as Mr. Duplessis' second-in-command.

DUPLESSIS DIES AFTER FOUR STROKES

'Le Chef'—Genius or Dictator?

QUEBEC (CP) — Maurice Duplessis, 69-year-old political strongman, died early Monday in the wild north country of French Canada, where he promoted multi-million-dollar development.

The Quebec premier, called "Maurice" and "Le Chef" by Union Nationale Party followers, fell victim to a lonely death while visiting a great iron mining development at Schefferville.

After four cerebral hemorrhages since last Thursday afternoon which paralyzed his right side and left him in a coma, he stirred in bed about midnight, moved his right arm slightly and was dead at 12:01 a.m.

Some called Duplessis a political genius and saviour of Quebec. Others called him a dictator. Some hailed him as a great man, while others denounced him as a politician who rewarded party friends and crushed foes.

He made no bones about his views on government affairs.

He called the system of letting out tenders for contracts "disguised hypocrisy." He said of government purchases it was his policy to encourage "our friends first" and to buy elsewhere when necessary.

In the 1956 election campaign, he told voters in one riding they would not get a needed bridge unless they elected a Union Nationale candidate to the legislature. They elected a Liberal and the bridge was not built.

The same principle applied elsewhere to new roads or hospitals.

"If you approve, let us know by your vote," he said.

His system worked.

He was the first Quebec premier to serve five terms of office—four of them consecutive.

He Dominated His 'Rebel' Party

On May 16, 1957, Premier Duplessis observed the 30th anniversary of his first election to the legislature as Conservative member for the city of Trois-Rivières. Four days later, he set a record of 5,818 days in office, one day more than the provincial mark of the late Alexandre Taschereau. In the months that followed, he far outdistanced the term of the once-powerful Liberal whose regime he brought crashing down in 1936.

Mr. Duplessis, always a skilled manager of people, formed an alliance of rebel Liberals, Conservatives and nationalists to accomplish the overthrow, ending a 39-year Liberal reign in Quebec.

Once installed at the government leader's desk in the legislature, Premier Duplessis dominated proceedings.

He used flashing oratory to praise the works of his own government and scathingly attack the opposition.

He paid only slight attention to high religious or civil rank and took many verbal swipes at high-placed persons who dared to disagree with him.

He chided French premiers about the instability of their governments and by verbal and written statement flayed Canada's federal government leaders.

As attorney-general, he expressed displeasure with decisions of the Supreme Court of Canada in cases which he felt involved Quebec's judicial authority. However, he quietly paid court-ordered damages for cancelling the liquor permit of Frank Roncarelli, Montreal restaurant owner who put up bail for arrested members of the Witnesses of Jehovah sect.

His campaign against what he called encroachment by the federal powers was methodical and he kept Quebec out of the national hospital insurance plan, federal-provincial tax-sharing agreements, the system of federal grants to universities, and the trans-Canada highway program.

In private life, Maurice LeNoble Duplessis was a quiet, hard-working bachelor with innumerable acquaintances but few trusted friends.

He was born at Trois-Rivières April 20, 1890. His father was a Conservative member of the Quebec legislature for eight years.

He cut his political teeth in municipal elections, working for a Liberal. When he ran as a Conservative in the 1923 provincial election, the 33-year-old Duplessis went down to defeat. But he was elected by 126 votes in 1927 and within eight years was leader of his party.

In his younger days he was a hard-living, hard-driving politician who once joked that he would trade 200 years of purgatory for a few years of political power. He smoked cigars, drank champagne and his good looks attracted the ladies.

He gave up alcohol in 1942, three years after his Union Nationale party's only general election defeat, and turned himself into a skillful master of politics.

A victim of diabetes, he ate simply and observed regular habits though he got only about six hours sleep after his busy day.

On Wednesdays, he left his compact suite in the Chateau Frontenac at Quebec and accompanied by a provincial police officer in plain clothes attended 6 a.m. mass at the Roman Catholic basilica.

General elections, byelections and all his important political moves were undertaken on Wednesdays, a day of special devotion to St. Joseph.

His government enacted unusual and drastic legislation—the ill-famed padlock law, a redefinition of freedom of worship aimed at restricting the activities of Jehovah's Witnesses, a provincial lottery, television censorship, newspaper controls—but much of it remains a dead letter.

To Quebec voters, Mr. Duplessis was first of all the builder of new roads, bridges, schools, hospitals.

Ungava's gigantic iron ore mining development; Bersimis, Manicougan, Chute-au-Diable, and other hydro-electric projects; high-voltage cables laid under the St. Lawrence River to carry electricity to the dormant Gaspé Peninsula; roads that opened the northern regions of barren Chibougamau and sparsely inhabited Lake St. John to an era of booming growth—these were achievements of the Duplessis administration.

PM LEADS TRIBUTE TO 'COLORFUL MAN'

By The Canadian Press

Premier Duplessis of Quebec was described as "one of the most colorful characters in the public life of Canada in this half-century" by Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

"Maurice Duplessis, in the devoted service which he gave throughout his life to the maintenance of the rights and traditions of his people, became one of the most colorful characters in the public life of Canada in this half-century," Mr. Diefenbaker said.

"He loved Canada. He recognized the federal system as the only basis of a united Canada. He died in harness, and amid the development in northern Quebec in which he had played so large a part."

"Many things that he did resulted in controversy, but whether in agreement or not, I think his place in history will be that of a born leader of men in his day and generation, with recognition given to the fact that the courses that he followed were the product of his devotion to the principles in which he believed rather than being the dictates of expediency."

Archbishop Howard Clark, new primate of the Anglican Church of Canada: The whole church synod meeting in St. Anne de Bellevue, Que., "is deeply moved by the death of the premier of the province where we have been received with such gracious hospitality; our thoughts and sympathy go out to the people of the province and the family of the premier."

Premier E. C. Manning of Alberta: "He will be sorely missed in his province. He was a leading figure in public administration for years."

Premier W. A. C. Bennett of British Columbia said Canada has lost the dean of her provincial leaders.

Mr. Bennett described the Quebec premier as "the great defender of the constitution, a foe of centralism and a champion of provincial rights."

"It was my privilege to know and meet with Mr. Duplessis at several Dominion-provincial conferences. Although he spoke for French Canada, Maurice Duplessis was a great force in the achievement of unity with English Canada."

"He presented the viewpoint of Quebec with sincerity and conviction which earned him the admiration of all who knew him, whether or not they agreed with his arguments."

DOG SHOTS MAN

GREENWILL SPRING, La. (CP)—A dog-shot and killed his owner Saturday. J. B. Fairchild, 62, opened the door of his car and his dog jumped in, discharging a shotgun lying on the seat. The charge hit Fairchild in the stomach.

WITH MIXED EMOTIONS, THEY WAVE GOODBYE TO SCHOOL-BOUND CHILDREN

Long, Long Summer Ends for Mothers

The school children's annual tragedy began today as mothers gaily waved them off to school for the new term.

End of the summer vacation saw an estimated 21,000 pupils filling classrooms in School District 61 (Greater Victoria); 2,550 in District 62 (rural Saanich); and 2,300 in District 63 (Sooke); representing an overall increase of about 1,400.

School board officials in all three districts reported a

"normal" opening of schools with only the usual minor hitches and confusion at the 69 schools from Sidney to Sooke.

Full teaching staffs were on hand for the sudden deluge of pupils except in Greater Victoria where a physical education teacher dropped out at the last moment.

"We expect to obtain a replacement without too much difficulty," said school superintendent John Gough. "Everything else is going smoothly and it is a normal returning day."

New elementary schools opening for the first time were the six-room Hampton and Shelbourne Schools, Uplands Elementary School, which went into partial operation last spring with two rooms, opened full-scale today with five classrooms.

The International Woodworkers of America strike has held up some school construction in the Greater Victoria and Sooke districts.

A second-floor addition at Mount Douglas School and construction of the new Elizabeth Fisher Junior High School on Jacklin Road are affected by the strike.

Junior high school students scheduled to enter Elizabeth Fisher School were registered at three different schools today: One class at Millstream Elementary, one class at Colwood Elementary and six classes at Belmont Senior High School.

Sooke school district also shifted 100 pupils from the fire-damaged Saseenos School to temporary accommodation in Sooke elementary schools. Not affected by the strike are reconstruction of Saseenos School, an addition to the McKenzie Avenue Elementary and S. J. Willis Junior High Schools.

Construction of a new 16-classroom Esquimalt Senior High School on Skinner's Flats is expected to wind up at the end of the year. Meantime, a shift system has gone into effect in the nearby Esquimalt High School where both senior and junior high students have been enrolled for the fall term.

A special class of Grade 7 pupils was opened at Doncaster Elementary School to accommodate the junior high students in the area. The proposed new Gordon Head Junior High School still is in the planning stage.

No accidents connected with school opening were reported as 15-mile-per-hour school zones went back into effect this morning. Safety patrols were operated by some schools while others were being organized.

B.C. Safety Council issued an appeal to motorists to keep a wary eye on returning school children crossing streets and riding bicycles.

PROTESTS BREW

Hot Talk on Hockey Club Sale

By DOUG. PEDEN
Times Sports Editor

Everything is pointing to a stormy session when shareholders of Victoria Hockey Club (1957) Ltd. huddle in a special session Wednesday, Sept. 16.

Indications around town are that many of the approximately 500 Victorians who, two years ago, purchased a little more than $30,000 in shares of $25 each to keep professional hockey in the city, are far from satisfied with an offer to sell the Victoria Western Hockey League franchise for $25,000.

Directors of the Cougars announced Saturday they recommended that the community-owned franchise be sold to James Piggott of Saskatoon for $25,000, which is believed little more than enough to pay off current debts. There would be nothing for shareholders.

However, whether or not the proposed sale goes through will still depend on the shareholders when the matter is put to a vote at next week's meeting.

WHAT ELSE?

While the first reaction of most stockholders appeared to be one of bitter opposition to the plan, most appear resigned to the belief that there is probably no better course if hockey is to continue in Victoria.

Some believe the suggested sale price is lower than it should be in view of the fact that the Cougars have assets of $8,400 in league deposits, own nine players, have two exhibition games scheduled — with New York Rangers and Detroit Red Wings — which could net the club about $6,000, and have season ticket sales or reservations of almost $20,000.

KEPT SECRET

But the aspect of the situation that appears to rankle most fans and shareholders is the fact that the true financial condition of the club was kept from them until this late date.

Many plan to demand of directors an explanation of why a meeting was not called months ago, which might have given the club a chance to perhaps work out a better solution to the Cougar problems and, if sale of the franchise was the only way out, to attempt to obtain a better price.

Decision to propose sale of the franchise was decided on after directors became convinced that the Cougars could not carry on as a community-owned venture after two losing seasons, despite indications that this could be a successful campaign.

They were unable to see a way clear to obtain money to pay manager-coach Hal Laycoe, office personnel needed to handle pre-season business, and the club trainer, or to pay for advertising, transportation of players to training camp, and to purchase needed new equipment.

Needling to do something in a hurry, they attempted to find a local backer for the club. When this failed, the help of league president Al Leader was solicited and Leader interested Piggott in the Victoria franchise.

A LITTLE BIT WISTFUL was Victoria's Vivi Petersen, right, who heard today she will not be able to represent Canada in the Miss America contest at Atlantic City. Named Saturday to stand in for ailing Miss Canada, Rosemary Keenan, left, Vivi was told today she will not be needed after all. Miss Keenan recovered. But Vivi will attend pageant as special guest.

'Stand-In' Role Assigned to Vivi

Chance for Victoria's Vivi Petersen to represent Canada in the Miss America contest fell through today.

The once-ailing Miss Canada, Rosemary Keenan, 19, of Fair Vale, N.B., was told by her doctor she could make the trip to Atlantic City after all.

Miss Petersen, also 19, of 1111 Chapman, who was called in as a substitute Saturday by Miss Canada, officials after Miss Keenan became ill, will attend the contest as a stand-in in case Miss Keenan suffers a relapse.

A Canada Pageant spokesman said Victoria's queen will be "a special guest of honor."

"I am not too disappointed," Miss Petersen told the Times from Atlantic City today.

"It's a thrill just to be here. We're right by the ocean and the weather's wonderful. I'm thrilled to pieces that Rosemary can represent Canada after all. I am very happy for her."

Miss Petersen came second to Miss Keenan in the Miss Canada pageant held in Hamilton, Ont., Aug. 13.

Only one point separated the pair in the competition. Last Thursday Miss Keenan was taken to a Fredericton, N.B. hospital suffering from complete exhaustion induced by the strain of making 40 personal appearances across Canada in 15 days.

When Miss Keenan's doctor finally decided his patient could make the trip to Atlantic City, Vivi was already winging her way to Hamilton to pick up her ticket from Canada Pageant officials for the trip south.

Rather than disappoint Miss Petersen too much, they decided to send her as a stand-in to Miss Keenan and as a special guest of honor.

INDIAN SUMMER MAY FOLLOW LATE SPRING

Victoria weather officials feel an Indian summer may occur following a mild rain storm expected later this week.

But the long-range weather forecast isn't optimistic. It leans toward normal temperatures and normal rainfall, for September.

Rule-of-thumb forecasters are sniffing the air and declaring an Indian summer is due. Why? Well, spring came late.

CONTINUES WINNING WAYS AT MAPLE BAY REGATTA

Has Bluebottle Raced Last Time for Duke?

The Duke of Edinburgh's yacht Bluebottle finished ahead of boats from B.C. and the United States on the holiday weekend to win the featured Dragon class race at the Maple Bay regatta.

Skipped by "sailing master" Surgeon Lieutenant Ross Coles, the 12-year-old craft, veteran of an estimated 500 races during her career, gained a handy win over a California entry built only a few weeks ago.

Unofficial reports indicate that this may be her last race before she is sold or given away by the Duke who is reported building a new boat in England.

With her in the last of 56 races, sailed in Canada were crew members Roy Murdoch, vice-commander of the Royal Victoria Yacht Club, and Tim Irwin, a junior member of the Maple Bay Yacht Club, selected as one of the host club's two representatives on the Royal Yacht.

Too long. The race was one of two sailed by the boat at the annual Labor Day regatta. The first, on Saturday, was called for exceeding the time limit as the Dragons drifted in light airs but Bluebottle had established a good lead at this point. The regatta attracted 84 boats of all sizes from clubs in B.C. and down the west coast of the U.S.

Threat of heavy winds Saturday drove most boats out of the bay down to nearby Birdseye Cove but owners returned in the evening for a dance and "get-togethers" aboard boats.

Other awards were: Cowichan Cup for "C" class, won by Bambi, owned by Tim Heiberg, Royal Vancouver Y.C.; Sansum Narrows Trophy for "Dragon" class won by Bluebottle; Tzouhalem Cup for "stars," Mintaka, owned by R. Johnson, Royal Victoria Y.C.;

Winnipeg Cup for "Lightnings," Hi-Time, owned by Gerald Coleman, Maple Bay Y.C.; City of Nanaimo Cup for "Comets," Vega, owned by John Hutchison, Maple Bay Y.C.; Victoria-Cowichan Cup for "Snipes," Klattawa, owned by S. Hall, Royal Victoria Y.C.;

Maple Inn Trophy for "Penguins," Dra-Gn-It, owned by A. Libby, Corinthian Y.C., Seattle.

The host Maple Bay Club won the inter-club competition with Vancouver second and Victoria third.

Speedy hydroplanes from Vancouver Island, Vancouver, and Seattle met at Westwood Lake, near Nanaimo, this weekend, for the annual Labor Day regatta.

Some 40 boats swept round the mile-long course watched by an estimated 500 spectators.

Poor weather caused a delayed start and cancellation of some races, including all junior events.

Feature race of the day, a 10-lap all-comers event, was won by the Vancouver boat "Go-Devil" driven by Stan Vollmers. Second was Port Alberni driver Gordon Campbell's "Gig" and third "Scout" driven by Alex Stevenson of Nanaimo.

Big Drop In Air Travellers

Holidayers Hit By Runway Work

Runway repairs which made Patricia Bay Airport unusable for DC-3 aircraft in high winds cut Trans-Canada Air Lines Labor Day weekend traffic by 1,100 passengers.

400 Travel Tofino Road On Weekend

An RCMP traffic check today showed 400 cars travelled the new road to Tofino over the holiday weekend.

It was the first exploration of the new road connection to the west coast of the Island since the route was officially opened Friday. Many of the travellers stayed overnight, mostly using new provincial camp sites constructed along the highway.

The route was christened August 22 by a 76-car cavalcade of Chamber of Commerce members from Tofino and Ucluelet in a special preview of the road. It was constructed partly by the provincial government and partly by Macmillan and Bloedel and B.C. Forest Products crews.

RESTRICTIONS

Since Friday, the road has been open to public use without restriction. But starting this morning and continuing on all work days, public use is limited to the hours between 5 p.m. and 7 a.m.—the logging trucks have full use by day.

The route from Alberni area skirts Sproat and Kennedy Lakes, linking with the 25-mile Tofino-Ucluelet road north of Ucluelet.

Police said the first rush of travel brought no reportable accidents.

One hundred and eighty-eight flights, using larger aircraft as well as DC-3s, were planned to carry 5,600 passengers.

Actually operated were 174 flights, carrying 4,500 passengers.

Only one runway is in use while the main runway is being lengthened and strengthened. Work will be finished Sept. 21. A cross wind of above 10 miles per hour makes it impossible for the small DC-3s to use this runway.

TCA used a Super G Constellation (75 passengers), a turbo-prop Viscount (44) and a North Star (62) in an attempt to break the travel jam.

NIGHTS OUT

Night flying is also out during the repair period.

On Friday, despite weather which grounded all planes until 4 p.m., TCA operated 44 flights carrying 1,178 passengers. Saturday 41 flights, mainly with larger aircraft, moved 1,428 passengers. Sunday, 34 flights carried 836, and Monday 1,067 travelled in 50 flights.

Monday's total was reduced by the fact that 28-passenger DC-3s could land here with only 22 passengers, and take off for Vancouver with only 14.

FERRIES HIT

Weather also plagued Washington State Ferries. Monday's sudden storm which whipped up 10-foot waves in Juan de Fuca Strait forced cancellation of two runs by My Kalakala between Port Angeles and Victoria.

Otherwise, transportation companies reported "normally heavy" traffic on and off the Island over the weekend.

SEPTEMBER SADNESS descended on this boy and his dog as it did on most of the other 21,000 Greater Victoria children who returned to school today for another term. Vacation-ending parting between 11-year-old Douglas Sampson, 3598 Thistle, and his pet "Goldie" took place at the Doncaster School doorway as the Grade 5 pupil, books in hand, said au revoir to worried dog. (Times Photo by Halkett.)

TOPICS OF THE DAY

A 33-year-old man who said he hasn't worked for 2½ years was sentenced in city police court today for 45 days for vagrancy.

Kenneth McNeill, no fixed address, was found in a vacant James Bay house Sunday.

McNeill had a lengthy record for vagrancy both in B.C. and Alberta.

He blamed his troubles on drink.

Proposals for the further development of tourist industry will be discussed at a meeting of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce tourist trade group at the Glenish Hotel at 6:30 p.m. Thursday.

Oak Bay Kiwanians will see a fire fighting demonstration at the Oak Bay fire hall at 7 p.m. Thursday. It will be directed by Chief Bill Pearson.

Winners of the weekly tournament of the Victoria Unit, American Contract Bridge League are: 1, Elizabeth Warren, Hildegard Rundquist; 2, Madge Meachen, Guy Dickson; 3, Ethel Cleworth, Dorothy McConnell; 4, Phil Hagel, Eric Goodwin; 5, Chas. Cleworth, Bud Waddington.

Martin Negy, Lake Cowichan, was fined $200 and $650 costs in Colwood RCMP court today for impaired driving.

Frederick Popham, 2836 Inez, charged with soliciting tourist business for a cab company beyond the six-foot limit from his stand, had the charge dismissed in city police court today.

He was warned, however, to "restrict your activity."

Popham had crossed the street to answer a question from tourists concerning a bus tour time.

Another giant tanker is due to be docked by Yarrows Ltd. at Government wharf dock, Esquimalt, this week.

The 645-foot Orion Comet is expected to arrive Thursday for survey and annual overhaul. She is 84 feet in beam, with a carrying capacity of 30,000 tons.

ASK THE TIMES

Q. Could you tell me the nationality of Viscount Montgomery's parents? D.H.

A. Irish. The family were originally Scots, but moved to Ireland in the 1600s. The field marshal's father was an Anglican bishop. Viscount Montgomery was born in England.

Q. Would you kindly inform me if the Shriners pay the expenses for eye surgery on a child? Where can they be contacted? L.T.

A. Any child may be eligible for assistance. Chairman of the crippled children's committee for Victoria is Joseph Foster, who can be contacted at his place of business, 1400 Quadra, EV 3-4032.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the question along to The Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

Lonely 36 Hours in Wilds For Lightly-Clad Official

A department of transport official spent 36 hours over the weekend in northern Vancouver's rugged Cape Scott area wearing only a business suit and carrying a brief case.

Air-sea rescue in Vancouver and fishermen in the area were alerted when J. D. V. Westcott, 2564 Scott, a maintenance supervisor for the department, failed to arrive at the storm-tossed lighthouse site at the cape.

Search was called off when the fishboat Pat Sur reported finding the man at Fisher's Cove.

District marine agent here said Westcott had been on his way to inspect the site for a new lighthouse and had left Port Hardy by chartered boat Saturday.

Due to rough weather the skipper of the craft put the supervisor ashore at Fisher's Cove, some seven miles from the cape, and turned back to Port Hardy.

It is not known whether Westcott carried out his intention of trying to walk to the cape or, if he remained at the cove.

TOO LONG

The race was one of two sailed by the boat at the annual Labor Day regatta. The first, on Saturday, was called for exceeding the time limit as the Dragons drifted in light airs but Bluebottle had established a good lead at this point. The regatta attracted 84

Sew a Fine Seam for Fall With Mohair, Blin and Blin

By PENNY SAVER

Now's the time to sew yourself a thrilling fall outfit—for next to nothing. Since fashion news this winter is definitely in the fabrics, you can sew the style most flattering for you. Try one of the new suits with those lovely soft collars. Or a shaggy, shadow plaid mohair coat. For evening, jewel-toned brocades are cut on elegant lines.

Mohair in a rainbow of colors for skirts, coats and suits, too, is the fashion fabric for winter.

Solid color, 54-inch width is $7.95 a yard. Tweed mixtures are available at the same price. Shadow plaid in rich, rich tones, costs $8.95 a yard.

Blin and Blin comes in three weights, light and airy for the perfect afternoon dress, warmer for suits, and full weight for coats. This beautiful smooth finish fabric is one of the loveliest for fall sewing.

Brocades are utterly beautiful. From Hong Kong come oriental patterned bolts of the shimmering material. Price is well within means of even the strictest budget—$1.98 a yard, 36 inches wide.

I found all these fabrics at one dress goods shop. Phone me at EV-2-3131 for its name.

P.S.: They had lovely printed corduroy, too! A yard, 36 inches wide costs $2.69.

In 54-inch widths, dress weight is $7.95 a yard, suit weight is $9.95 a yard and coat weight is $13.95 a yard.

Dental Care Is Important

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am writing in hopes that you can help my kid sister. She is 13 and has the prettiest face you ever saw. She looks just like an angel. There is just one thing that spoils her looks and it's her teeth. They are growing in so crooked it is a shame.

I begged my parents to get her braces but they say Nature will straighten her teeth in time. I know this isn't so because my teeth grew in very crooked and Nature didn't straighten them out. But it doesn't matter much because I am a boy (15) and not very good looking anyway.

I wish you'd say in your column that it's important for a girl to have nice teeth. If you help my sister, I'll pray for you. Thank you.

BIG BROTHER.

DEAR BROTHER: Proper dental care is important (for girls AND boys) for the sake of good health as well as good looks. The self-confidence of a pretty smile is worth all the time and money invested. Urge your parents to take this little doll to a dentist at once. If they can't afford it, have them inquire about dental clinics and the local dental college.

DEAR ABBY: We have a married son who has children. We like to visit them but I feel that when we are there we should remember that we are guests. My wife, on the other hand, tells everyone what to do, corrects the children and acts like she lives there. I would like to enjoy the children. Am I wrong? Please

LOUISE DAVIS

On Etiquette

Question on Theatre Tickets:

As a result of some special work I did for a friend, I received four tickets for the theatre for one night next week. I am a widow and would like to invite a man, whom I date occasionally, and another couple. How could this be done without having the man think I bought the tickets? When we enter the theatre, do I, as hostess, hand the tickets to the ticket-taker?

Louise Davis Answers:

When you invite your guests, tell them that a friend has given you four tickets for such and such a show next Thursday night. Before entering the theatre, it would be a good idea to hand the four tickets over to your "date." Nothing need be said, unless you make a remark as, "Would you please take care of these?"

TODAY'S RECIPE

HONEY APPLESAUCE CAKE

One-third cup shortening, ¼ cup honey, 2 cups flour, ¼ teaspoon cloves, ½ teaspoon cinnamon, ¼ teaspoon nutmeg, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon soda; 1 cup cold, unsweetened applesauce; 1 cup seedless raisins.

Cream shortening. Add honey gradually, creaming after each addition. Mix and sift together dry ingredients and add alternately with the applesauce to the creamed mixture. Fold in raisins. Pour batter into a well-greased 8x8x2-inch pan. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F) for about 45 minutes.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Mothers Too Often Neglect Their Health

The following sentence is from a letter I received recently: "It's not so bad to let your own health go but it is criminal to neglect your children's health or your husband's."

That thought pretty much mirrors the opinion of many mothers and wives. Most children nowadays are under a doctor's care from infancy. They are immunized against dread diseases, their diets are scientifically regulated and their teeth and eyes are periodically checked.

Men working in many industries are required to have regular check-ups. These are paid for by the employer. But many modern mothers can't seem to find time or money to care for their own health.

Mary Blank was an "unselfish" mother. She had two boys and two girls. Like most young mothers with a growing family she was busy every waking hour. Not only was the work demanding, but keeping a step ahead of the budget was a problem.

Mary kept telling herself that the growing lump in her breast was nothing to worry about. A visit to the doctor would cost money and time and both were scarce. The children needed new school clothes and there was no time to spend in a doctor's office.

When Mary finally saw a physician it was too late. She died a year-and-a-half later, leaving Jack to rear the children.

"Our budget can't stand doctor bills," is the argument many young mothers give. Many of these same women find that their budget can stand their husbands' recreation, music lessons for the children and a large television set.

Not seeing a doctor isn't the only way mothers are neglecting their health. A husband has at least one day off and children are given naps, but modern mothers go doggedly about their work seven days a week from dawn to dusk.

Farewell Luncheon

Mrs. J. C. Turnbull, who leaves Victoria shortly to make her home in Winnipeg, was guest of honor recently at a luncheon party given at King Arthur's Roundtable. Mrs. Harry Lawrie presented a gift of crystal to Mrs. Turnbull. Also present were Mrs. E. Laura Butler, Mrs. C. Batstone, Mrs. H. Bird, Mrs. P. Brown, Mrs. J. Clark, Mrs. R. Dishaw, Mrs. H. Evans, Mrs. P. Forsberg, Mrs. B. Gollob, Mrs. N. Hanning, Mrs. M. Harris, Mrs. E. Hartland, Mrs. P. Holmes, Mrs. K. Jensen, Mrs. S. Johnston, Mrs. H. Roberts, Mrs. J. Surtees, Mrs. F. Taaffe, Mrs. C. Waggoner, Mrs. G. Walkey, Mrs. R. Watters and Miss J. Martin, Tacoma.

For Long Weekend

Mr. Gordon M. Abernethy, his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. James Miller motored to Merritt late last week, to spend the Labor Day week-end in the interior city.

Sisters Here

Mrs. George H. Loker, New Orleans, and Mrs. F. Stevens, St. Catherine's, Ont., are at present visiting in Victoria and are guests of Mr. G. A. Vantreight, Sr., and Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Vantreight at their home at Gordon Head. The two sisters will be in the city for two weeks.

At Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Loeb, Beach Drive Manor, just returned from Vancouver where they attended the marriage of their grandson, Charles B. Wayte, son of Mrs. Pearl Wayte, Seattle. Bride is the former Arleen June Buckshon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Buckshon of Vancouver. The couple are honeymooning in Washington, Oregon and California. Their future home will be in Chicago.

Local Guide Back From World Camp

By SONJA STRANDLIE
After excitedly talking about her recent trip to the International Girl Guide Camp in Sweden, Doris Mooney, 16-year-old daughter of Alderman and Mrs. M. H. Mooney, said, "I liked staying with the Swedish family best of all."

And no wonder, the food, hospitality and entertainment were terrific. Mrs. J. A. M. Moir is Guide captain of the Third Pemberton Company here in Victoria and Miss Mooney is a company leader with that corps. She was one of 25 Guides and three leaders chosen to go from Canada to the camp. Guides who went were chosen for their merit, leadership and citizenship.

Doris was the only Guide from the Island who attended the camp and she was the girl in camp who was farthest from home.

She explains: "The camp is called Vastgotasalen and it is situated at Goteborg, Sweden. There were 3,000 Swedish Guides there and 500 foreign Guides, mostly Europeans, but including Americans and Canadians. Seventeen countries were represented."

Quiet Ceremony

A quiet ceremony in St. John's Anglican Church on the afternoon of Friday, Sept. 4, united in marriage Wendy Mary Owen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Norris, and Andre Taylor Lowen, Vancouver. After a honeymoon-up-Island, the young couple will make their home in Vancouver.

Vancouver Vows

St. Phillip's Anglican Church, Vancouver, was the scene Friday of a wedding of interest in Victoria. The principals were Miss Jacqueline Carol Haddock and Mr. Glyn Roberts Thomas. The bride's aunt, Mrs. Ernie Keyes, of Victoria, with her daughter, Cheryl, was present at the wedding, and the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. J. Courtney Haddock, with Darcy and Clarice, also attended from Victoria.

Outstanding Girl Guide, Miss Doris Mooney, is the daughter of Alderman and Mrs. M. H. Mooney of Victoria.

When asked what humorous events took place at camp Miss Mooney laughed and said, "They put the United States flag upside down!"

"There were no language problems at all. Interpreters were supplied and most Swedish people speak English because it is taught extensively in school."

"Our arrival at camp was televised by British, Canadian and American TV crews."

"At camp there were activity groups where we learned folk dancing, gymnastics, singing and arts and crafts of Sweden," Doris says. "We swam at camp; everybody mixed and got along well together. Each night at campfire there was entertainment by a different group from a different country. The Canadian girls put on dancing and singing of Canada."

"We traded friendship pins and anything that we could get along without," she said as she admired her silver Swedish friendship ring.

"Oh, and one other funny thing at camp, Swedish girls all wore night caps!"

After going to camp the Canadian Guides stayed with Swedish families to see how they live.

"The best part of the trip was my stay with a Swedish family, Mr. and Mrs. Sten Berndson and their three daughters in Karlsborg. We went crawling hunting in a pond one evening (I borrowed rubber boots) and I got stuck in the mud and fell over. Mr. Berndson, being a photographer, took my picture. I was covered with mud!"

"I never heard of eating crawfish before, but it is a delicacy over there so we ate them that night. In the smorgasbord we had we ate meat, fish and cheese first, then we were served the main course. It is usually fish, potatoes and no other vegetables. I never saw a closed sandwich there—they are all open-faced."

For entertainment she visited Guides staying with other Swedish families, saw sail boating, swam and played croquet.

"On the Ms. Stockholm coming home," Doris continues, "the chief purser and stewards gave us tea parties, cake parties, tours of the bridge and kitchen. Then we square danced in the main lounge. It was fun," she recalls with a twinkle in her eye.

Plea Made of Soap Makers To Standardize Packages

WINNIPEG (CP) — Housewives who despair when they see the number of different sizes for soap packages have the sympathy of at least one consumer-expert here.

Dr. Isobel MacArthur, president of the Manitoba branch of the Canadian Association of Consumers, says: "I'd like manufacturers to standardize on sizes, so that king-size boxes of soap or detergent would all be the same weight in different brands."

Retail merchants at a meeting of their Canadian association said they object to the "multiplicity of sizes and brands of soap" now on the market. Shelf space and invested capital is increasingly strained, they told manufacturers.

Dr. MacArthur agrees. "You can't compare terminology," she says. "One king-size box may contain four pounds, four ounces; the other, three pounds, ten ounces. We advise consumers to figure out the unit cost — how much is it per ounce."

She says weight of the contents is usually marked in extremely small print on a corner of the package.

Complaints also come to the consumer association from purchasers who don't want premiums in their soap boxes. Dr. MacArthur echoes the words of such housewives: "We want soap, not all these extras."

Flower Arranging

Mr. Frank Lions, Shawinigan Lake, will give a course in flower arranging on Salt Spring Island this fall. Lectures, under government community programs, will be given each Friday evening for 10 or 12 classes in the Mahon Hall board room, Ganges. Classes will commence Friday evening at 7.30.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Kampf of Abbotsford, announce the engagement of their youngest daughter, Helen Elaine, to Richard Sleep, son of Mrs. Thomas Sleep, Victoria. Wedding will take place in St. Andrew's Cathedral, Saturday, September 19, at 7 p.m. Miss Kampf has chosen for her only attendant, her sister, Mrs. Wallace Elman, South Burnaby. Best man will be George Essihos. Father A. J. MacDonald will officiate. (Photo by Irving Strickland)

Classic Wedding Gown Of French Taffeta Worn

A full-length gown of heavy French taffeta in pure white was worn by bride Eileen Elizabeth Trainor for her wedding Saturday to Albert David Burkhard. Rich lace formed a yolk for the oval neckline of the bodice. It was studded in front and back with seed pearls and sequins. Folds of the skirt were gathered into a gracefully shaped bustle effect at the back from which the gown flowed into a chapel train. Her cloud of veil was held by a small coronet studded with seed pearls and sequins. She carried red rosebuds and white fluffed carnations.

Tall standard baskets of autumn-toned chrysanthemums decorated the Glad Tidings Tabernacle for the service. Rev. E. A. Hornby officiated. Organist was B. Brooks and soloist, Mr. D. Sadler. Bride's father gave her in marriage.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. S. Bennalack are parents of bride, and groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Burkhard.

Shades of yellow and blue were chosen for gowns of bridal attendants, Mrs. D. Lidgate, Mrs. D. Brown and Mrs. K. Martindale. Gowns were ballerina-length net over tulle with matching boleros. Flowers were shaded bronze chrysanthemums.

Flower girl, Linda Palmer wore a pink nylon frock and little Eddy McLeanaghan was ring bearer.

Rings Exchanged at Ceremony In St. John's Anglican Church

White chrysanthemums and white heather decorated St. John's Anglican Church Saturday for the marriage of Ethel Elizabeth Cummings and David Robert Holbrook. Canon T. W. Scott officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

Bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Cummings of Victoria and groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Holbrook of Calgary.

A white, full length, satin gown featuring a chapel train, appliqued lace and pearls on bodice, scoop neckline, lily point sleeves and a lace panel on the skirt was chosen by the bride. A crown-shaped head-dress decorated with pearls held her fingertip veil of embroidered tulle. She carried a white Bible topped with a white gardenia, pink roses and white stephanotis. Bride was given in marriage by her father.

Matron of honor, Mrs. Douglas MacGregor chose a turquoise nylon chiffon over tulle, ballerina length gown. Her carnation headband matched her pink colonial bouquet. Bridesmaid Miss Denise Mulcahy wore a ballerina length coral nylon chiffon gown with a white carnation headband which matched her white colonial bouquet. Bridesmaids, Miss Verna Parke and Miss Beverly Nolan, both of Vancouver, chose the same gowns and flowers as Miss Mulcahy.

Mother of the bride, Mrs. Cummings, wore a navy blue silk dress with white gloves and hat. Mrs. Holbrook, groom's mother, chose a navy wool suit.

Douglas MacGregor was best man and Nigel Turner, Les Oliver and Bob Herbertson ushered. Three-year-old twins, Bobbie and Bruce Crowe, were train bearers. They wore navy velvet trousers, white satin shirts and little bow ties.

decorated with pink rosebuds was cut by the newlyweds at their reception in Old Charming Inn. Patrick Mulcahy proposed the bridal toast.

For the honeymoon trip to the United States bride chose a grey wool worsted suit with green and black accessories. Newlyweds will live at 2260 Eastdown upon their return.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Holbrook, parents of the groom from Calgary; bridesmaids, who graduated in 1958 from Vancouver General Hospital with the bride, the Misses Verna Parke, Beverly Nolan, Edith Cummings and Edna Smith, all of Vancouver.

LEARN THE SECRET OF A YOUTHFUL APPEARANCE

Gray Hair makes you look older than you really are. A new product, developed in Miami, Florida, makes it possible to remove natural-looking color to gray, faded, or streaky hair, without dyeing or tinting. SCOTT'S ANTI-GRAY HAIR TONE is a creamy white pomade, which can be used by men and women. It is equally effective on all shades of hair. Will not wash out, nor rub off on clothing or pillow.

Imagine a new hearing aid so light that it weighs only 1/4 ounce, so powerful that it gives you all the sound you need, so small that you have to see and try it to believe it.

Designed for active men and women, this new ultra-miniature hearing aid provides a new way of life for men and women who have felt restricted by the bulk and inconvenience of old-fashioned hearing aids.

New Acousticon Privat-Ear provides the kind of freedom you have dreamed of, the inconspicuous hearing correction you have hoped for—but never thought possible. Now you can lead a full and active business life—even engage in sports—and enjoy your hearing all the time!

You've got to see and hear with the new ultra-miniature Privat-Ear to believe it. So come in to our office or phone for a convenient home appointment. No cost or obligation, of course. For more information, write for FREE booklet.

novating the exteriors of older homes. It can be applied over existing finish. Low in cost and inexpensive to apply. It is being used extensively for this purpose.

End of Lumber Strike Seen As IWA Backs Deutsch Plan

Result of Vote Expected Friday

Prospects of an early end, possibly next week, to the economy-crippling B.C. coast loggers' strike was seen today as 26,660 woodsmen began a vote on a 20-cent-an-hour pay increase over two years proposed by government mediator Dr. John Deutsch.

Policy committee of the International Woodworkers of America Sunday recommended to their members that they accept the proposal.

A result of the vote is expected by Friday.
Dr. Deutsch suggested the loggers get a 10-cent hourly pay boost this year retroactive to June 15, and another 10-cent boost next year. It also proposed various "fringes."

AN IMPROVEMENT
Union leader Joe Morris told a press conference Sunday that "while the Deutsch report does not entirely satisfy the needs and desires of the members of the union, it represents a considerable improvement over a conciliation board report."

(The board report recommended 12 cents an hour over two years, paralleling the terms offered by the employers.)

Mr. Morris, however, said the policy committee's decision was not unanimous. He said chief opposition came from Vancouver-New Westminster district locals.
And during the weekend, Syd Thompson, president of the 6,000-member Vancouver local, said he would speak against the committee's decision at a special meeting of his local.

Mr. Morris dismissed the incident, adding "we will see how much opposition there is when the vote is tabulated."

Mr. Morris said that if the companies did not accept the report the union was not bound by its terms in later demands. He said he had no doubt the workers would accept the recommendation.

Officials of Victoria, Nanaimo and Duncan locals are known to have recommended acceptance of the report, and it is understood a similar line was taken by IWA leaders at Port Alberni.

SOLID FRONT
A Duncan spokesman said today, "As far as I know, there is a solid front up here for acceptance. Everybody seems to want to get back to work."

The Port Alberni local was to vote today at 3 p.m., Duncan and Nanaimo Wednesday or Thursday.

Victoria IWA members will vote on the Deutsch report at a membership meeting called for 2 p.m. Wednesday at the Club Sirocco, 1037 View. Local 1-118 president Jack MacKenzie today urged all union members to attend.

The walkout to date is estimated to have cost the industry $22,640,000 in lost production and the men $20,450,000 in wages since it began July 6.

Meanwhile, Forest Industrial Relations, which represents the 127 companies involved, is not expected to comment on the Deutsch report until after the union vote has been tabulated.

Reliable lumber industry informants say the companies are split 50-50 whether to use Prof. Deutsch's recommendation as a basis of settlement. They add a solid acceptance vote by the union might swing the tide and end the longest, and probably costliest woodworkers' strike in B.C. history.

B.C. MINER FOUND SLAIN

BRALORNE, B.C. (CP).—The body of Charles Edward Chapman, 46-year-old miner, was found in a cabin here today. Police said he had been shot to death.

A 26-year-old man was being held in connection with Chapman's death.

RCMP said the shooting apparently followed a quarrel. No charges were laid immediately.

A 60-year-old Westholme man was one of 10 B.C. traffic fatalities over the Labor Day Holiday weekend.

George Thomas was killed late Monday night when the truck he was driving plunged off the Crofton-Chemalms road into a power pole.

RCMP at Chemalms said cause of the accident is unknown, but an inquest will be held this week.

Dr. Steel Dies After Long Coma

Victoria physician Dr. Anne Steel died Sunday in Royal Jubilee Hospital after 1,209 days in a deep coma. The three-year struggle by physicians to preserve her life started May 16, 1956, when she fell from a horse near Osoyoos, B.C., while holidaying with her children, Phillipa and Tony.

"She was gradually becoming weaker," said Jubilee medical administrator Dr. Murray Anderson, "and just quietly slipped away."

Doctors said that initial brain damage to the 39-year-old woman was severe and further deterioration was produced by gradual debilitation of the remaining organs and general "weakening of the physique."

During her illness she was visited daily by her husband Philip, a school teacher, and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. I. Cooke, 1560 Despard.

PAYS TRIBUTE

Dr. Anderson paid tribute to the care shown her by doctors and nurses of the hospital and said they had "done a tremendous job."

Dr. Steel received her B.C. certification to practice medicine in 1948 and interned at St. Joseph's Hospital here. She then practiced here for eight years in partnership with Dr. Charlotte Doherty.

Born in Scotland in 1920, she attended Queen Margaret's School, Scarborough, England, and graduated in medicine from the University of Edinburgh in 1944.

After graduation she joined the Red Cross and followed the Allied forces into Malaya where she was placed in charge of a hospital in Johore State.

For work at the hospital she received the official thanks of the Malayan government.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 1:45 p.m. in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church conducted by Very Rev. J. Lewis W. McLean.

Guards of honor will be formed by nurses of the Jubilee and St. Joseph's Hospitals and pallbearers will be members of the Victoria Medical Society.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

Lord, teach us to pray. Grant us the faith that prevails. Enable us to take hold of the promises of God and claim their fulfillment in the cause entrusted to us. Make the believing prayers of Thy people a channel through which streams of grace may flow into the souls of those who are athirst for God. Then, through men and women who are God-possessed, work out Thy wonders for our generation; through Christ, Amen.

RED VETO DODGED

UN Sets Up Laos Probe

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—The United Nations Security Council ended one of its toughest word struggles early today by voting 10 to 1 to study the Laotian war through a four-power subcommittee.

FOUR-POWER TEAM HAILED

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP).—News of the four-nation United Nations team to investigate Laos' charges of aggression by Communist North Viet Nam was warmly welcomed here today.

But officials were obviously disappointed that there was no provision for an international police force.

3 Bombings Inflame Little Rock

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP).—Governor Orval E. Faubus today deplored three bombings over school integration as public indignation mounted.

A $100,000 reward fund was proposed for the capture of the persons who tossed the bombs Monday night.

One bomb damaged the school board building. One hit the mayor's business office and the other damaged a station wagon of Fire Chief Gann Nalley.

BARRICADES UP.
Police armed with riot guns patrolled streets and set up barricades around the four public high schools. Two of the schools were integrated Aug. 12.

Two men were reported seen fleeing from the bombed structures after hurling objects at them. No arrests have been made.

Faubus told a press conference he thought the bombings were "sickening and deplorable."

The reward fund was proposed by Ben W. Dees, a consulting engineer. He said he would try to organize a movement to set up the fund.

Holiday Toll: 431 in U.S., 53 Canadians

TORONTO (CP).—Canada's Labor Day weekend, a time of vacation fun for most, became a time of sorrow for some as 53 persons died in accidents, more than half of them on the highways.

Traffic accidents accounted for 32 deaths, 11 fewer than the number killed on the roads during last year's Labor Day weekend. Thirteen persons were drowned.

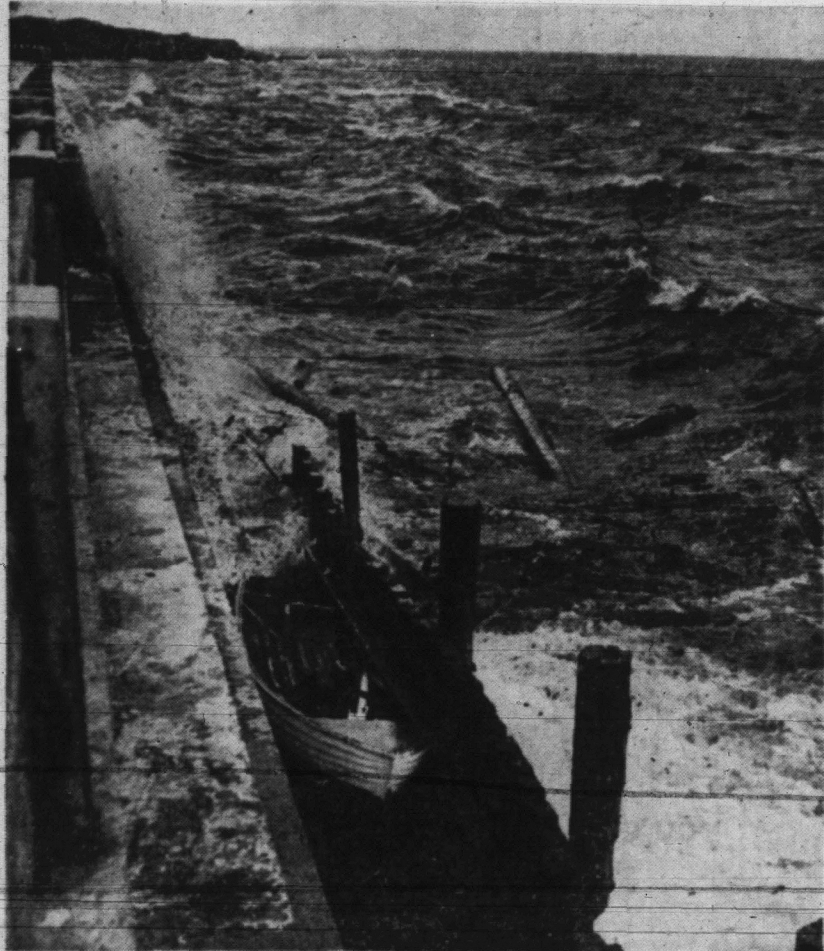

CHICAGO (AP).—Traffic accidents during the three-day Labor Day holiday cost the U.S. a near-record toll in human lives.

There were 431 dead counted today.

The all-time record number of traffic deaths for a Labor Day weekend is 461—set in 1951.

UN-easy lies th' head that wears a Laotian crown.

VICTIM OF WIND, WAVE

With hull hopelessly smashed, this small craft is evidence of fury of sudden storm which whipped Juan de Fuca Strait Monday, piling up driftwood and refuse along Dallas Road waterfront. Times photo was taken at 6 p.m., just before storm started to blow itself out.

Sneak Southwester Imperils Fishermen

The unpredictable Juan de Fuca Strait lashed out at close to 200 sports fishing boats between Brothie Ledge and Albert Head Monday in a sudden storm that built up to gale force in less than 10 minutes.

Almost miraculously, there were no lives lost, but small boats clawed desperately toward shore as winds blew at 45 miles an hour, gusting to 61.

Another fleet of about 100 boats, mostly outboards and small inboards, was hit by the southwester in the Sooke area.

At one time it was feared at least three fishermen had drowned, as their cars were parked at Sooke fisherman's wharf after all boats had apparently returned. But the cars were claimed by their owners at sundown.

At Ogden Point, the B.C. Pilotage launch put out beyond the breakwater to escort small craft ashore.

A drifting, unoccupied 12-foot inboard was smashed against log pilings at the foot of Dock Street despite the efforts of a half dozen bystanders to beach it. This morning it lay on the beach, hull smashed beyond repair.

At HMCS Naden, the patrol boat was alerted for sea at a moment's notice. Its services were not called on.

The wind came from the worst possible direction, churning a flood tide into towering white caps. Waves built to 10 and 12-foot crests at the height of the storm, which blew itself out during the night.

RCAF Rescue Co-Ordination centre at Sea Island, Vancouver, handled 14 calls for aid Tuesday evening, about half of them in Island Waters.

STAR DIES

Kay Kendall, 32, stage and screen star, died of leukemia Sunday in a London clinic. The wife of actor Rex Harrison had been in poor health for nearly two years and entered hospital over a week ago. (See story Page 7).

Deadlocked Steel Strike Longest Ever

NEW YORK (AP).—The U.S. steel strike became the longest of its kind in the country's history today—without the faintest glimmer of hope for a settlement soon.

The walkout of 500,000 steelworkers union members, shutting down mills accounting for 87 per cent of the U.S. basic steel production, entered its 56th day at 12:01 a.m.

A similar strike totalled 59 days in 1952 but its continuity was interrupted by government intervention.

The current shutdown of 12 major steel producing firms is estimated to have cost billions of dollars in lost wages and business for the industry.

New Air Union Would Link Commonwealth

LONDON (Reuters) — The "Commonwealth air union" — joining the airlines of Britain, Canada, India, Australia, New Zealand and other countries — is the aim of Transport Minister Harold Watkinson.

It said the cabinet is "enthusiastic" over the plan as a means of drawing the Commonwealth together.

The plan would give a fly-anywhere ticket to Commonwealth passengers, bring down fares and present the British aircraft industry with a ready-made market as big as the home market of the U.S. manufacturers.

The paper said the principal airlines concerned are British Overseas Airways, Trans-Canada Air Lines and Canadian Pacific, Qantas of Australia and the New Zealand Airline.

Alaska Ready To Discuss Salmon Pact

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP) — The state of Alaska has expressed general agreement to a proposed joint United States-Canadian committee to consider conservation and management of salmon in the Dixon Entrance area, Governor William A. Egan said Friday.

The international boundary between the southeastern Alaska panhandle and B.C. coastal islands lies in Dixon Entrance, a passageway from the open Pacific to the inside waters, Dixon Entrance is a mingling area for salmon spawned in streams of B.C. and Alaska.

The governor told the 42nd general conference of the Pacific Northwest Trade Association that the U.S. state department had asked for Alaska's views on the proposed committee.

"I expressed general agreement with the suggestion," the governor said.

Egan said he advocated that such a committee "meet alternately in northwestern British Columbia and southeastern Alaska, with the U.S. representation composed exclusively of Alaska residents familiar with the problems involved."

SEPTEMBER SADNESS descended on this boy and his dog as it did on most of the other 21,000 Greater Victoria children who returned to school today for another term. Vacation-ending parting between 11-year-old Douglas Sampson, 3598 Thistle, and his pet "Goldie" took place at the Doncaster School doorway as the Grade 5 pupil, books in hand, said au revoir to worried dog. TOPICS OF THE DAY

A 33-year-old man who said he hasn't worked for 2½ years was sentenced in city police court today for 45 days for vagrancy.

Kenneth McNeill, no fixed address, was found in a vacant James Bay house Sunday.

He told court he had been drinking there.

McNeill had a lengthy record for vagrancy both in B.C. and Alberta.

He blamed his troubles on drink.

Proposals for the further development of tourist industry will be discussed at a meeting of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce tourist trade group at the Glenside Hotel at 6.30 p.m. Thursday.

Oak Bay Kiwanians will see a fire fighting demonstration at the Oak Bay fire hall at 7 p.m. Thursday. It will be directed by Chief Bill Pearson.

Winners of the weekly tournament of the Victoria Unit, American Contract Bridge League are: 1, Elizabeth Warren, Hildegard Rundquist; 2, Madge Meachen, Guy Dickson; 3, Ethel Cleworth, Dorothy McConnell; 4, Phil Hagel, Eric Goodwin; 5, Chas. Cleworth, Bud Waddington.

Martin Negy, Lake Cowichan, was fined $200 and $650 costs in Colwood RCMP court today for impaired driving.

Frederick Popham, 2836 Inez, charged with soliciting tourist business for a cab company beyond the six-foot limit from his stand, had the charge dismissed in city police court today.

He was warned, however, to "restrict your activity."

Popham had crossed the street to answer a question from tourists concerning a bus tour time.

Another giant tanker is due to be docked by Yarrow's Ltd. at Government graving dock, Esquimalt, this week.

The 645-foot Orion Comet is expected to arrive Thursday for survey and annual overhaul. She is 84 feet in beam, with a carrying capacity of 30,000 tons.

ASK THE TIMES

Q. Could you tell me the nationality of Viscount Montgomery's parents? D.H.

A. Irish. The family were originally Scots, but moved to Ireland in the 1600s. The field marshal's father was an Anglican bishop. Viscount Montgomery was born in England.

Q. Would you kindly inform me if the Shriners pay the expenses for eye surgery on a child? Where can they be contacted? L.T.

A. Any child may be eligible for assistance. Chairman of the crippled children's committee for Victoria is Joseph Foster, who can be contacted at his place of business, 1400 Quadra, EV 3-4832.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the question along to The Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve controversies or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to dealers.

Meeting of the Machinists, Fitters and Helpers Union, Local 3, will be held at 715 Johnson at 7.30 p.m. Wednesday.

Wilfred Derkson, 2531 Government, pleaded guilty in city police court today to an impaired driving charge.

He was in collision with two cars at Government and Belleville over the weekend.

Derkson was fined $250.

St. Patrick's School officials today applied to City Hall for tax exemption on three recently-acquired lots on the east side of Lee Avenue between Fort and the city boundary.

Premier Bennett leaves for Ottawa on Oct. 15 for a continuation of Dominion-provincial conference of finance ministers and their advisers which began last spring.

He will return in time to attend the Social Credit convention Oct. 30 and 31 at Vancouver.

Monday he will speak to the Ad and Sales Bureau, Vancouver Board of Trade, and Tuesday to the Canadian Institute of Chartered Accountants, also in the mainland city.

Ald. D. J. Proudfoot will return to Victoria Sept. 17 as a result of a doctor's advice, Mayor Percy Scourrah said today.

Ald. Proudfoot, vacationing in the United Kingdom, had been scheduled to return over the weekend.

However, a letter sent to Mayor Scourrah said his plans had been changed on doctor's orders, following a lengthy illness resulting from food poisoning contracted in London, Eng.

Despite heavy winds and wet weather, car accidents in the city were at a minimum over the holiday weekend.

Only one person was taken to hospital, Mrs. Lillian Bradbury, 52, of 2173 Pentland. She sustained abrasions to the right knee and left shoulder Monday when the car driven by her husband, F. W. Bradbury, was in collision with a car driven by Albert Allen, 4121 San Ardo.

The accident was at Bay and Shelbourne. Damage was heavy.

Heavy damage also resulted when a car driven by Ronna Collins, 45, of 931 Jasmine, was in collision with a car driven by Gary L. Abbott, 1092 Hampshire, at Fort and Richmond. There were no injuries.

Lonely 36 Hours in Wilds For Lightly-Clad Official

A department of transport official spent 36 hours over the weekend in northern Vancouver's rugged Cape Scott area wearing only a business suit and carrying a brief case.

Air-sea rescue in Vancouver and fishermen in the area were alerted when J. D. V. Westcott, 2564 Scott, a maintenance supervisor for the department, failed to arrive at the storm-

WITH MIXED EMOTIONS, THEY WAVE GOODBYE TO SCHOOL-BOUND CHILDREN

Long, Long Summer Ends for Mothers

The school children's annual tragedy began today as mothers gaily waved them off to school for the new term.

End of the summer vacation saw an estimated 21,000 pupils filling classrooms in School District 61 (Greater Victoria); 2,550 in District 62 (rural Saanich); and 2,300 in District 63 (Sooke); representing an overall increase of about 1,400.

School board officials in all three districts reported a

"normal" opening of schools with only the usual minor hitches and confusion at the 69 schools from Sidney to Sooke.

Full teaching staffs were on hand for the sudden deluge of pupils except in Greater Victoria where a physical education teacher dropped out at the last moment.

"We expect to obtain a replacement without too much difficulty," said school superintendent John Gough. "Everything else is going smoothly and it is a normal returning day."

New elementary schools opening for the first time were the six-room Hampton and Shelbourne Schools, Uplands Elementary School, which went into partial operation last spring with two rooms, opened full-scale today with five classrooms.

The International Woodworkers of America strike has held up some school construction in the Greater Victoria and Sooke districts.

A second-floor addition at Mount Douglas School and construction of the new Elizabeth Fisher Junior High School on Jacklin Road are affected by the strike.

Junior high school students scheduled to enter Elizabeth Fisher School were registered at three different schools today: One class at Millstream Elementary, one class at Colwood Elementary and six classes at Belmont Senior High School.

Sooke school district also shifted 100 pupils from the fire-damaged Saseenos School to temporary accommodation in Sooke elementary schools.

Not affected by the strike

are reconstruction of Saseenos School, an addition to the McKenzie Avenue Elementary and S. J. Willis Junior High Schools.

Construction of a new 16-classroom Esquimalt Senior High School on Skinner's Flats is expected to wind up at the end of the year. Meantime, a shift system has gone into effect in the nearby Esquimalt High School where both senior and junior high students have been enrolled for the fall term.

A special class of Grade 7 pupils was opened at Doncaster Elementary School to accommodate the junior high students in the area. The proposed new Gordon Head Junior High School still is in the planning stage.

No accidents connected with school opening were reported as 15-mile-per-hour school zones went back into effect this morning. Safety patrols were operated by some schools while others were being organized.

B.C. Safety Council issued an appeal to motorists to keep a wary eye on returning school children crossing streets and riding bicycles.

PROTESTS BREW

Hot Talk on Hockey Club Sale

By DOUG. PEDEN
Times Sports Editor

Everything is pointing to a stormy session when shareholders of Victoria Hockey Club (1957) Ltd. huddle in a special session Wednesday, Sept. 16.

Indications around town are that many of the approximately 500 Victorians who, two years ago, purchased a little more than $30,000 in shares of $25 each to keep professional hockey in the city, are far from satisfied with an offer to sell the Victoria Western Hockey League franchise for $25,000.

Directors of the Cougars announced Saturday they recommended that the community-owned franchise be sold to James Piggott of Saskatoon for $25,000, which is believed little more than enough to pay off current debts. There would be nothing for shareholders.

However, whether or not the proposed sale goes through will still depend on the shareholders when the matter is put to a vote at next week's meeting.

WHAT ELSE?

While the first reaction of most stockholders appeared to be one of bitter opposition to the plan, most appear resigned to the belief that there is probably no better course if hockey is to continue in Victoria.

Some believe the suggested sale price is lower than it should be in view of the fact that the Cougars have assets of $8,400 in league deposits, own nine players, have two exhibition games scheduled — with New York Rangers and Detroit Red Wings — which could net the club about $6,000, and have season ticket sales or reservations of about $10,000.

KEPT SECRET

But the aspect of the situation that appears to rankle most fans and shareholders is the fact that the true financial condition of the club was kept from them until this late date.

Many plan to demand of directors an explanation of why a meeting was not called months ago, which might have given the club a chance to perhaps work out a better solution to the Cougar problems and, if sale of the franchise was the only way out, to attempt to obtain a better price.

Decision to propose sale of the franchise was decided on after directors became convinced that the Cougars could not carry on as a community-owned venture after two losing seasons, despite indications that this could be a successful campaign.

They were unable to see a way clear to obtain money to pay manager-coach Hal Laycoe, office personnel needed, to handle pre-season business, and the club trainer, or to pay for advertising, transportation of players to training camp, and to purchase needed new equipment.

Needing to do something in a hurry, they attempted to find a local backer for the club. When this failed, the help of league president Al Leader was solicited and Leader interested Piggott in the Victoria franchise.

A LITTLE BIT WISTFUL was Victoria's Vivi Petersen, right, who heard today she will not be able to represent Canada in the Miss America contest at Atlantic City. Named Saturday to stand in for ailing Miss Canada, Rosemary Keenan, left, Vivi was told today she will not be needed after all. Miss Keenan recovered. But Vivi will attend pageant as special guest.

'Stand-In' Role Assigned to Vivi

Chance for Victoria's Vivi Petersen to represent Canada in the Miss America contest fell through today.

The once-ailing Miss Canada, Rosemary Keenan, 19, of Fair Vale, N.B., was told by her doctor she could make the trip to Atlantic City after all.

Miss Petersen, also 19, of 1111 Chapman, who was called in as a substitute Saturday by Miss Canada officials after Miss Keenan became ill, will attend the contest as a stand-in in case Miss Keenan suffers a relapse.

A Canada Pageant spokesman said Victoria's queen will be "a special guest of honor."

"I am not too disappointed," Miss Petersen told the Times from Atlantic City today.

"It's a thrill just to be here. We're right by the ocean and the weather's wonderful. I'm thrilled to pieces that Rosemary can represent Canada after all. I am very happy for her."

Miss Petersen came second to Miss Keenan in the Miss Canada pageant held in Hamilton, Ont., Aug. 13.

Only one point separated the pair in the competition. Last Thursday Miss Keenan was taken to a Fredericton, N.B., hospital suffering from complete exhaustion induced by the strain of making 40 personal appearances across Canada in 15 days.

When Miss Keenan's doctor finally decided his patient could make the trip to Atlantic City, Vivi was already winging her way to Hamilton to pick up her ticket from Canada Pageant officials for the trip south.

Rather than disappoint Miss Petersen too much, they decided to send her as a stand-in to Miss Keenan and as a special guest of honor.

INDIAN SUMMER MAY FOLLOW LATE SPRING

Victoria weather officials feel an Indian summer may occur following a mild rain storm expected later this week.

But the long-range weather forecast isn't optimistic. It leans toward normal temperatures and normal rainfall, for September.

Rule of thumb forecasters are sniffing the air and declaring an Indian summer is due. Why? Well, spring came late.

CONTINUES WINNING WAYS AT MAPLE BAY REGATTA

Has Bluebottle Raced Last Time for Duke?

The Duke of Edinburgh's yacht Bluebottle finished ahead of boats from B.C. and the United States on the holiday weekend to win the featured Dragon class race at the Maple Bay Regatta.

Skipped by "sailing master" Surgeon Lieutenant Ross Coles, the 12-year-old craft, veteran of an estimated 500 races during her career, gained a handy win over a California entry built only a few weeks ago.

Unofficial reports indicate that this may be her last race before she is sold or given away by the Duke who is reported building a new boat in England.

With her in the last of 56 races sailed in Canada were crew members Roy Murdoch, vice commodore of the Royal Victoria Yacht Club, and Tim Irwin, a junior member of the Maple Bay Yacht Club, selected as one of the host club's two representatives on the Royal Yacht.

TOO LONG

The race was one of two sailed by the boat at the annual Labor Day regatta. The first, on Saturday, was called for exceeding the time limit as the Dragons drifted in light airs but Bluebottle had established a good lead at this point.

The regatta attracted 84

boats of all sizes from clubs in B.C. and down the west coast of the U.S.

Threat of heavy winds Saturday drove most boats out of the bay down to nearby Birdseye Cove but owners returned in the evening for a dance and "get-togethers" aboard boats.

Other awards were: Cowichan Cup for "C" class, won by Bambi, owned by Tim Heiberg, Royal Vancouver Y.C.; Sansum Narrows Trophy for "dragon" class won by Bluebottle; Tzouhalep Cup for "stars," Mintaka, owned by R. Johnson, Royal Victoria Y.C.;

HYDROPLANES HAMPERED BY POOR WEATHER

Speedy hydroplanes from Vancouver Island, Vancouver, and Seattle met at Westwood Lake, near Nanaimo, this weekend, for the annual Labor Day regatta.

Some 40 boats swept round the mile-long course watched by an estimated 500 spectators.

Poor weather caused a delayed start and cancellation of some races including all junior events.

Feature race of the day, a 10-lap all-comers event, was won by the Vancouver boat "Go-Devil" driven by Stan Vollmers. Second was Port Alberni driver Gordon Campbell's "Gigi" and third "Scout" driven by Alex Stevenson of Nanaimo.

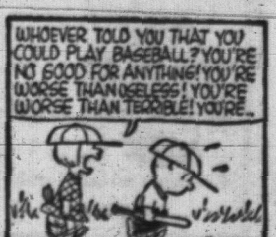

moored in the bay and tied up at the floats.

Winner of the regatta's main award, the Lipton Trophy, for "C" and "B" class cruising craft was Royal Victoria Yacht Club's Aida owned by Hunter Vogel.

Other awards were: Cowichan Cup for "C" class, won by Bambi, owned by Tim Heiberg, Royal Vancouver Y.C.; Sansum Narrows Trophy for "dragon" class won by Bluebottle; Tzouhalep Cup for "stars," Mintaka, owned by R. Johnson, Royal Victoria Y.C.;

Maple Bay Cup for "lightnings," Hi-Time, owned by Gerald Coleman, Maple Bay Y.C.; City of Nanaimo Cup for "comets," Vega, owned by John Hutchison, Maple Bay Y.C.; Victoria-Cowichan Cup for "snipes," Klattawa, owned by S. Halls, Royal Victoria Y.C.; Maple Inn Trophy for "pen-guins," Dra-Gn-II, owned by A. Libby, Corinthian Y.C., Seattle.

The host Maple Bay Club won the inter-club competition with Vancouver second and Victoria third.

Argos Hold Big Shakeup Meeting

TORONTO (CP)—Lew Hayman, managing director of Toronto Argonauts, planned to meet today with the coaching staff of his Big Four Football League club amid a general furor among fans and Toronto football writers that a drastic shakeup would take place in the next day or two to halt what appears to be another disastrous losing season for Argos.

Liberal Wins Tied Seat in P.E.I.

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP)—George E. Saville, a Liberal member of the Prince Edward Island legislature since 1935, today retained his seat when a Kings County returning officer cast his vote for the 79-year-old farmer. Mr. Saville and Conservative Leslie Hunter were tied in Kings Fifth for the councillor's seat with 675 votes each after the election of a Progressive Conservative government in the P.E.I. election Sept. 1.

Holiday Toll: 431 in U.S., 53 Canadians

TORONTO (CP)—Canada's Labor Day weekend, a time of vacation fun for most, became a time of sorrow for some as 53 persons died in accidents, more than half of them on the highways.

Traffic accidents accounted for 32 deaths, 11 fewer than the number killed on the roads during last year's Labor Day weekend.

Thirteen persons were drowned.

CHICAGO (AP)—Traffic accidents during the three-day Labor Day holiday cost the U.S. a near-record toll in human lives.

There were 431 dead counted today.

The all-time record number of traffic deaths for a Labor Day weekend is 461—set in 1951.

OCTOBER 8 ELECTION CALLED FOR BRITAIN

Dr. Steel Funeral Wednesday

Victoria physician Dr. Anne Steel died Sunday in Royal Jubilee Hospital after 1,209 days in a deep coma.

The three-year struggle by physicians to preserve her life started May 16, 1956, when she fell from a horse near Osoyoos, B.C., while holidaying with her children, Phillipa and Tony.

"She was gradually becoming weaker," said Jubilee medical administrator Dr. Murray Anderson, "and just quietly slipped away."

Doctors said that initial brain damage to the 39-year-old woman was severe and further deterioration was produced by gradual debilitation of the remaining areas and general "weakening of the physique."

During her illness she was visited daily by her husband Philip, a school teacher, and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. I. Cooke, 1560 Despard.

PAYS TRIBUTE

Dr. Anderson paid tribute to the care shown her by doctors and nurses of the hospital and said they had "done a tremendous job."

Dr. Steel received her B.C. certification to practice medicine in 1948 and interned at St. Joseph's Hospital here.

She then practiced here for eight years in partnership with Dr. Charlotte Dohan.

Born in Scotland in 1920, she attended Queen Margaret's School, Scarborough, England, and graduated in medicine from the University of Edinburgh in 1944.

After graduation she joined the Red Cross and followed the Allied forces into Malaya where she was placed in charge of a hospital in Johore State.

For work at the hospital she received the official thanks of the Malayan government.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 1:45 p.m. in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church conducted by Very Rev. J. Lewis W. McLean.

Guards of honor will be formed by nurses of the Jubilee and St. Joseph's Hospitals and pallbearers will be members of the Victoria Medical Society.

3 Bombings Inflamm Little Rock

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—Governor Orval E. Faubus today deplored three bombings over school integration as public indignation mounted.

A $100,000 reward was proposed for the capture of the persons who tossed the bombs Monday night.

One bomb damaged the school board building. One hit the mayor's business office and the other damaged a station wagon of Fire Chief Gann Nalley.

BARRICADES UP

Police armed with riot guns patrolled streets and set up barricades around the four public high schools. Two of the schools were integrated Aug. 12.

Two men were reported seen fleeing from the bombed structures after hurling objects at them. No arrests have been made.

VICTIM OF WIND, WAVE

With hull hopelessly smashed, this small craft is evidence of fury of sudden storm which whipped Juan de Fuca Strait Monday, piling up driftwood and refuse along Dallas Road waterfront. Times photo was taken at 6 p.m., just before storm started to blow itself out.

Sneak Southwester Imperils Fishermen

The unpredictable Juan de Fuca Strait lashed out at close to 200 sports fishing boats between Brothie Ledge and Albert Head Monday in a sudden storm that built up to gale force in less than 10 minutes.

Almost miraculously, there were no lives lost, but small boats clawed desperately toward shore as winds blew at 45 miles an hour, gusting to 61.

Another fleet of about 100 boats, mostly outboards and small inboards, was hit by the southwester in the Sooke area.

At one time it was feared at least three fishermen had drowned, as their cars were parked at Sooke fisherman's wharf after all boats had apparently returned. But the cars were claimed by their owners at sundown.

At Ogden Point, the B.C. Pilotage launch put out beyond the breakwater to escort small craft ashore.

A drifting, unoccupied 12-foot inboard was smashed against log pilings at the foot of Dock Street despite the efforts of a half dozen bystanders to beach it. This morning it lay on the beach, hull smashed beyond repair.

Commercial fishermen Ron Griffen and A. Bastion were rescued by the RCMP from Broken Island, near Nanaimo, after their boat was driven ashore.

Two sailings of the Washington State Ferry Kalakala were cancelled due to high seas.

The storm also caused minor damages ashore in the Victoria area, interrupting some utilities services.

Family Saved at Breakwater

An unidentified man, his wife, and two children were saved when their small boat smashed against the seaward side of the breakwater. Three young men raced out on the breakwater and down to the water's edge to pull the family ashore.

At HMCS Naden, the patrol boat was alerted for sea at a moment's notice. Its services were not called on.

The wind came from the worst possible direction, churning a flood tide into towering white caps. Waves built to 10 and 12-foot crests at the height of the storm, which blew itself out during the night.

RCAC Rescue Co-Ordination centre at Sea Island, Vancouver, handled 14 calls for aid.

STAR DIES

Kay Kendall, 32, stage and screen star, died of leukemia Sunday in a London clinic. The wife of actor Rex Harrison had been in poor health for nearly two years and entered hospital over a week ago. (See story Page 7).

Vancouver Stocks Closing Sales

VANCOUVER—Closing sales: Inland Gas 5 at $4.75, Silver Standard 200 at 33, Mid West Copper 500 at 21 1/2, Smelters 25 at $19 1/2, Westminister Plywood "B" 50 at $15.

Florida Integrates

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Public school integration came to Florida for the first time today when four Negroes entered Miami's Orchard Villa elementary school along with several white children. There were no incidents.

Loggers Back Deutsch Plan; Voting Begins

Prospects of an early end, possibly next week, to the economy-crippling B.C. coast loggers' strike was seen today as 26,660 woodsmen began a vote on a 20-cent-an-hour pay increase over two years proposed by government mediator Dr. John Deutsch.

Policy committee of the International Woodworkers of America Sunday recommended to their members that they accept the proposal.

A result of the vote is expected by Friday.

Dr. Deutsch suggested the loggers get a 10-cent hourly pay boost this year retroactive to June 15, and another 10-cent boost next year. It also proposed various "fringes."

AN IMPROVEMENT

Union leader Joe Morris told a press conference Sunday that "while the Deutsch report does not entirely satisfy the needs and desires of the members of the union, it represents a considerable improvement over a conciliation board report."

(The board report recommended 12 cents an hour over two years, paralleling the terms offered by the employers.)

Mr. Morris, however, said the policy committee's decision was not unanimous. He said chief opposition came from Vancouver-Nest Westminister district locals.

And during the weekend, Syd Thompson, president of the 6,000-member Vancouver local, said he would speak against the committee's decision at a special meeting of his local.

Mr. Morris discussed the incident, adding "we will see how much opposition there is when the vote is tabulated."

Mr. Morris said that if the companies did not accept the report the union was not bound by its terms in later demands. He said he had no doubt the workers would accept the recommendation.

Officials of Victoria, Nanaimo and Duncan locals are known to have recommended acceptance of the report, and it is understood a similar line was taken by IWA leaders at Port Alberni.

SOLID FRONT

A Duncan spokesman said today, "As far as I know, there is a solid front up here for acceptance. Everybody seems to want to get back to work."

The Port Alberni local was to vote today at 3 p.m., Duncan and Nanaimo Wednesday or Thursday.

Victoria IWA members will vote on the Deutsch report at

Deadlocked Steel Strike Longest Ever

NEW YORK (AP)—The U.S. steel strike became the longest of its kind in the country's history today—without the faintest glimmer of hope for a settlement soon.

The walkout of 500,000 steelworkers union members, shutting down mills accounting for 87 per cent of the U.S. basic steel production, entered its 56th day at 12:01 a.m.

A similar strike totalled 59 days in 1952 but its continuity was interrupted by government intervention.

The current shutdown of 12 major steel producing firms is estimated to have cost billions of dollars in lost wages and business for the industry.

A 60-year-old Westholme man was one of 10 B.C. traffic fatalities over the Labor Day holiday weekend.

George Thomas was killed late Monday night when the truck he was driving plunged off the Crofton-Chemalms road into a power pole.

RCMP at Chemalms said cause of the accident is unknown, but an inquest will be held this week.

Duplessis Last Rites Thursday

QUEBEC CITY (UPI)—Quebecers said goodbye to "Le Chef" today.

The body of the late Premier Maurice Duplessis was carried through hushed crowds from the legislature where he ruled and lay in state to a basilica where he worshipped, en route to Three Rivers, Que., where he will be buried Thursday.

An estimated 1,000 to 2,000 mourners an hour filed singly and later in double lines past the flower-banked bier of the 69-year-old premier and Union Nationale party leader in the legislative chamber Monday afternoon and this morning—Thousands, many of whom knew him as a child, were expected at the Three Rivers courthouse tonight and Wednesday before the premier is buried in his family's plot beside the local Church of the Assumption.

Duplessis died at 12:01 a.m. Monday, in the Northeastern Quebec mining community of Schefferville. He succumbed after a series of cerebral hemorrhages that struck him within two days.

Prime Minister John Diefenbaker announced in Ottawa that he would lead a contingent of federal cabinet members at Thursday's funeral rites.

Plans were announced in Quebec, meanwhile, for a Thursday night Union Nationale party caucus to choose a successor to Duplessis.

8 Die in Traffic Over Long Weekend

(From CP Dispatches)

Nine persons died in mainland B.C. holiday weekend accidents—eight of them in traffic, one by drowning.

Worst smash was at Clinton where three persons were killed and three suffered severe injuries Monday when the car in which they were travelling left the road and rolled into a ditch.

The dead were identified as Irene Joan Fletcher, 13; Michael Harry Dunn, 20, and Isabelle Dumas, 25; all residents of this Cariboo town.

At Penticton—Flossie Ambrosi, 28, of Vancouver, was killed Saturday and two men injured in a two-car highway collision.

Walter Junker and Ken Sutherland, both of Vancouver, drivers of the cars, were slightly injured. Police said the two cars sideswiped while travelling in opposite directions in a 60-mile-an-hour zone.

Two Alberta vacationers died Monday when their car smashed through a bridge railing and bounced down a 150-foot embankment on the Big Bend Highway between Revelstoke and Golden in eastern B.C.

Mrs. Albert Peterson, 45, of Midnapore, Alta., was killed in the accident, 75 miles north of Revelstoke. Mr. Peterson died an hour later in hospital.

At Princeton, Antonia Sartore, 76, died in hospital Monday 90 minutes after being struck by a bus in the centre of the community.

One identified man was killed and another injured Saturday when a half-ton truck plunged 250 feet down an embankment onto the CPR tracks after going onto a soft shoulder on the southern trans-provincial highway near Grand Forks.

At Pitt Meadows, David Bruce Schleicher, 19 months old, was drowned in a ditch near his home Saturday after wandering away from his yard.

MORE POLIO

KAMLOOPS — The 1959 polio total in British Columbia has risen to 11 with two new cases reported here.

Both victims, a three-year-old child and a 22-year-old mother, are being treated in Royal Inland Hospital.

MARRIAGE BUREAU

VANCOUVER—A bureau is being established in British Columbia's West Kootenay district to legalize the marriages of Sons of Freedom Doukhobors.

The bureau, operated by marriage commissioner Kenneth McCrea of Nelson, will register and legalize marriages of couples united in informal Doukhobor rites in the past and will make the children of such marriages legitimate.

14 CHILDREN SAVED

SECHLT—Police and local residents waded into the water off nearby Roberts Creek Saturday night to rescue 14 children aboard the fishboat Hatt

C which went aground while returning from Vancouver to this coastal community. Fourteen adults aboard the vessel were able to make their own way to safety.

KNIFE IN STREET

VANCOUVER—Two youths suffered minor knife wounds Sunday night during a fight on downtown West Pender Street which resulted in arrest of five persons. Police said six persons were involved in the street brawl and the arrests were made following a chase.

MR. K. INVITE 'FUMBLER'

OTTAWA (CP)—Liberal Leader Pearson said today the government fumbled on the question of inviting Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev to visit Canada because an informal invitation apparently was not extended until after the itinerary and travel arrangements had been concluded for the Soviet leader's visit to the United States.

HOW YOUR LIVER BILE BREAKS DOWN FAT

Laboratory tests have now proved that liver bile emulsifies fat... actually breaks it down. It is an established medical fact that when liver bile is added to fatty foods, the fat is broken down and forms a smooth, easy-flowing mix. In your body, precious liver bile helps break down fat the same way. Many foods reach the digestive tract as undigested fatty solids. Your golden liver bile helps break down this fat... unblocks it... for easier and more complete digestion.

Carter's Little Liver Pills exclusive formula of natural, vegetable ingredients relieves irregularity gently and effectively. At the same time, it actually improves the flow of liver bile needed to break down fat in your body. So when you feel sluggish, headachy, nervous and need a laxative, get Carter's Little Liver Pills. Remember, Carter's not only relieves irregularity, but actually improves the flow of liver bile needed to break down fat.
